Trujillo Quits His Post

As Military Chief; May Leave Country

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (P)—The government Saturday night announced the resignation of Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr. as chief of the nation's armed forces and said he was leaving the country.

Loss of young Trujillo from the political scene here is expected to create a political vacuum potentially as dangerous as the assassination of his dictator father last May 30.

Highest sources said the 32-year-old Armed Forces boss had been pushed into his position by the governmental crisis stemming from the return of two leading members of the Trujillo family.

The two, Gen. Hector and Gen. Jose Arismendi Trujillo, both brothers of the late dictator, returned to the country Wednesday. Their departure last month was hailed by President Joaquin Balaguer's government as a key step toward democratization of the country.

The informants said the young Armed Forces chief tried in vain to persuade his uncles to leave again and was about to give up the effort. It was felt young Rafael's removal would result in a power grab within the military.

It is known both Hector and Jose Arismendi have the backing of old line supporters of the late dictator, both political and military, who feel young Trujillo and Balaguer have gone too far in steps to liberalize the country.

It was learned that recent meetings between young Trujillo and his uncles failed to resolve the issue. The government is known to feel the return of the dictator's brothers is detrimental to the country's chances of restoring normal relations with the rest of the Americas.

The Dominican Republic has been under political and economic sanctions imposed by the Organization of American States for 14 months.

Sam Rayburn Is Buried In Bonham

BONHAM, Tex. (P)—Sam Rayburn was buried Saturday in the presence of three presidents and the sorrowing, humble people of his home town.

President Kennedy was there to pay homage to the man who served the nation as a House member and speaker longer than any other in history.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was there, too, and alongside him former President Harry S. Truman.

The rites at Bonham's largest church and at the Bonham family burial plot were simple.

President Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman sat in the same pew at the church services.

Behind them ranged leaders of the three branches of government.

Immediately in front of the plain gray casket was the immediate family of the speaker, who died Thursday of cancer at the age of 79.

By the hundreds and thousands the plain people of Bonham and the country around paid tribute to "Mr. Sam."

It was a grim, gray day attuned perfectly to the mood of the famous people and the little ones brought together for a common purpose of honoring a man they called great.

But moments before the burial services began at Willow Wild Cemetery on the edge of this town of 7,000, the sun brushed aside a thick haze and beamed down on the assemblage.

"The sunshine of God's eternal love has lighted his pathway into glory," said Elder Pastor H. G. Ball of the Primitive Baptist Church of nearby Tioga, Tex., of which Rayburn was a member.

Presents Abroad

Monday is the last day packages destined for servicemen and women stationed overseas will have any guarantee of delivery by Christmas.

Maurice Hogan, postmaster, urges everyone planning to send presents abroad to get them in the mail as soon as possible.

Rehabilitation Bond Sale Is Today

A bond sale on behalf of the Crippled Children's Center swings into motion today, according to J. D. Walker, center director.

More than 500 volunteer workers will canvass the residential area offering for sale bonds for rehabilitation. Where residents are away from the home, an informative package will be left along with a bond and an envelope that will enable the party to mail in a contribution without much effort on their part.

While the bonds are made out for $7.50, enough money to meet expenses for treating a child one week, the volunteer group will be accepting whatever amount residents are willing to donate in the rehabilitation program. Everyone will receive a bond as a receipt regardless of the amount donated.

No specific time has been set for volunteers to make their call, Walker said, but plans are that the sale be held for one day only and all residents are expected to be reached Sunday, one way or the other.

The sale, the first call on the general public for support of the center, is necessitated by an $11,000 shortage of funds to operate the center, this fiscal year, offering the services it now offers free of charge to all Pettis County children with a variety of ailments that fall into the "crippling" category.

Walker explained the term "crippling" as it applies at the center: "Speech defects, hard of hearing, temporary retardedness, or other deficiencies that can be corrected early in life, are all crippling ailments in our terminology, in addition to the major afflictions."

It was also pointed out that funds derived from the bond sale would not be used to meet costs of the campaign. A local manufacturing firm supplied the center with the printed matter that is going into the packets that will be left at homes where residents are away.

Walker said that only $175 of center money, already appropriated for administrative costs, was being used in certain phases of the sale, but that any amount of supplies left over would still be of value to the center.

Dedication Slated For New Post Office

The dedication of the new Knob Noster Post Office will be held Saturday, Dec. 2, at 1:30 p.m. in the High School gymnasium, with Congressman William J. Randall as the speaker.

The Knob Noster High School Band and leading citizens of the town will participate in the dedication.

The program will be followed by the cutting of the ribbon and open house where refreshments will be served.

Outstanding Young Men Hunt Is On

Nominations for Sedalia's outstanding young man and Pettis County's outstanding young farmer are being sought by the Sedalia Jaycees, according to Harlan Snow, director.

The outstanding young man from the city and the outstanding young farmer from the county is honored each year by the organization at a banquet held during Jaycee Week in mid-January.

To be eligible for the awards, nominees must be between the ages of 21-35.

The outstanding young man program is aimed at recognition for service to the community. Recommendations should be submitted in letter form to: Sedalia Jaycees, 113 East Fourth, Sedalia. Specific accomplishments for the betterment of the community and good leadership during the year should be cited.

The top young farmer search is aimed at honoring the county's agriculturists who have made exceptional career progress without neglecting good conservation or responsible roles in community life.

All nominations should include the nominee's name, age, address, type of farming, or business engaged in, and the name of the person making the nomination.

Farmer nominees may be landowners or renters.

Deadlines for nominations is Jan. 1.

Dip In Personal Property Taxes Seen Next Year

Sedalians and Pettis Counties will note a substantial drop in personal property taxes for next year, Pettis County Assessor Jerry Trotter said Saturday.

Trotter said the drop will be due to lower assessments on automobiles in the first two classes in models from 1958 back to 1952. Cars older than 1952 models are assessed at $50, regardless of size, model or condition.

Cars in the first two assessment classes are the lower and medium-price models, making up the majority of automobiles assessed, Trotter said.

As the automobile is the biggest item on most assessment lists for personal property tax for individuals, Trotter said the lowering of the assessed valuation of lower and medium-priced cars will affect the majority of people assessed.

Trotter said that at the present time he cannot estimate the overall effect of the lower assessments on expected revenues.

Airport Bond Issue Vote Is Set Tuesday

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

WICHITA (P)—Creation by Congress of a federal agricultural commission, farmer-elected and authorized to set up marketing quotas and production controls on crops in surplus, was urged by the 56th annual convention of the Kansas Farmers Union Saturday.

Delegates said the commission should be independent of the Department of Agriculture and "responsible directly to Congress and the President."

MOSCOW (P)—Soviet military leaders claimed Saturday the Soviet Union has rocket warheads equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT and the missiles to deliver the super-bombs to any point on the globe.

They asserted that the Soviet Union is superior to the United States in capabilities for both rocket attack and rocket defense and that the backbone of the Soviet fleet is missile-firing atomic submarines. But it was admitted for the first time publicly that there was a period when the Soviet Union was virtually defenseless against air attack.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (P)—In one of the heaviest concentrations of missile and rocket launchings in the space age, the United States in the last four days has chalked up several military and scientific gains—but one of the major experiments failed early Saturday. The failure will delay an effort to land an instrument package on the moon.

During the fruitful period, advances were made toward a space navigation system, a missile killer rocket, spy satellites and a pushbutton war weapon.

WASHINGTON (P)—The Communist party of the United States has formally notified the Justice Department of its refusal to register under the Internal Security Act of 1950.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy disclosed Saturday the notice was received by registered letter.

LOS ANGELES (P)—President Kennedy urged Americans Saturday to shun "discordant voices of extremism" and concentrate on strengthening the nation against foreign-based Communist threats.

With an obvious attack on such groups as the John Birch Society and the militia-type Minutemen, Kennedy appealed: "Let our patriotism be reflected in the creation of confidence rather than crusades of suspicion."

8,000 County Residents To Get Christmas Seals

A total of 8,000 envelopes containing 1961 Christmas Seals were deposited in the mail Friday and many county residents already have them and others can expect theirs early this week.

The Pettis County Tuberculosis Association, sponsors of the TB seal campaign, expressed hope in a meeting Friday that this year's returns would be far above those received last year.

Jack Crawford, association president, said the tuberculosis tests conducted throughout the county last year should have some effect on this year's receipts in payment for the seals.

This year's mailing are 1,000 short of the number mailed last year which netted returns of $2,701. This amount was $300 under the previous year's total.

Despite this lower number of mailings the association's stepped up activities are expected to net a greater return.

An all-out campaign to bring to the attention of seal recipients the need for their contribution to aid the fight against TB is planned.

A special film strip has been secured and turned over to the Fox and Highway 50 theaters to use alternate weeks until Christmas. News media representatives have indicated their intent to publicize the worthiness of the drive to help wipe out TB. Bill Schien was named campaign director.

Improvement Proposal Will Require $200,000

Sedalians will vote on a $200,000 bond issue proposal Tuesday to improve the facilities of the Sedalia Municipal Memorial Airport. This will bring Sedalia's airport up to the standards required by present day aviation if passed. The proposal would mean an expenditure of over $400,000 in Sedalia, of which the Federal Government will furnish $214,000.

The proposal was brought to the voters on short notice due to a deadline imposed by the Federal Aviation Agency to cities seeking matching funds for aviation facilities on their respective airports. An actual deadline was set for next April, but to make it possible to get paper work and engineering data prepared so those who participate in the funds to be released the first part of 1962, the deadline was moved up to Oct. 31.

Sedalia's Board of Airport Commissioners who had been making plans to ask for matching funds were caught short on time and had to petition the government for their matching funds by the deadline time. To further participate, they had to show its intention of endeavor to obtain their share of the monies for the matching funds. Thus, Sedalia was granted until the latter part of November to go ahead with their plans and present to the public their proposal for the bond issue.

Over three years ago the Board moved to obtain additional ground by purchasing property valued at $13,500 and with airport engineering and other expenses the amount was $14,000, all of which has been paid.

The costs of providing the airport improvements amounts to $428,000, and Sedalia's share is $214,000. The F.A.A. is allowing Sedalia matching funds of $14,000 for their share of the $214,000, hence it was necessary only to provide for an issue of $200,000.

The plans as prepared by the airport engineer and approved by the district engineer of the Federal Aviation Agency calls for a runway southwest to the northeast to be 4,400 feet long. This runway will accommodate all present day airplanes which are now serving cities the size of Sedalia. An example of the runway length for such services is exhibited by the application of Jefferson City's airport board which desires to bring their runway to the length as approved by the FAA. They too, will have a 4,400 foot runway, on which their extension work is expected to get underway this coming spring.

Some additional land must be acquired to accommodate this runway, in length as well as width. Clear zone easements must be obtained. These costs are $35,000.

Warning System Sirens Check Planned Today

When Civil Defense warning sirens blare out with their shrill tones at 12:30 this afternoon there is no need to take shelter—it's only a test.

Jack Kraus, acting Civil Defense director, has called for a test of the equipment at that time. It is the first test since the sirens were lowered sometime ago in an effort to increase the range over which they may be heard.

Kraus has asked that city residents who do not hear the sirens to call TA 7-6881. He said a sufficient number of calls from a specific area would pinpoint a trouble spot and corrective action would be taken to improve the warning system in that area.

Thanksgiving Dinner Is Easy Pickings For Ronald Camirand

The chase was tough and go for a few minutes just after noon Saturday, but Ronald Camirand, 209 West 11th, finally cornered his Thanksgiving dinner against the wall of the Smith-Cotton High School playground.

The chase began when Camirand, driving east on East Broadway, spotted a sizable turkey wandering around underneath the viaduct. He stopped and the chase began. The gobbler, which had apparently fallen off a vehicle, scaled the high bank to the school ground wall.

Camirand, after climbing the bank himself, used a few soft words to lure the gobbler into reach and the chase was over.

Peace Pilgrim Stops Over In Sedalia On Long Walk

A self-styled Peace Pilgrim, strolled into Sedalia Friday morning and expressed some strong convictions for the cause of world peace.

Peace Pilgrim

Hedging on her age, the tall, slender woman who goes by the simple title, Peace Pilgrim, is currently on her third trip across the United States and Friday's visit was also her third journey through Sedalia. She came here in the morning after paying visits earlier in the week to Columbia and Jefferson City where she spoke before several student and church groups. After spending the night here she departed, by foot as all her travels are, for Springfield, Joplin and Cape Girardeau.

Peace Pilgrim's cross-country hikes have taken her approximately 19,000 miles, through 48 states, Mexico and Canada, she said. On a zig-zag course that leads her to the south in the winter and northward in the summer, she hopes to cover 25,000 miles by 1964 and reach her destination—Washington, D.C. Her visits to Sedalia is part of a trip designed to take her into every city in the nation exceeding 25,000 residents. From Cape Girardeau she will go to St. Louis—her last stop in Missouri.

"My name? What does it matter?" she asked. "Peace Pilgrim is enough. I want my name to reflect my mission—not myself as an individual."

"Age is also meaningless," she said. (Please turn to page 8, column 8)

DEMOCRAT AND CAPITAL RATE ADJUSTMENT FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS DELIVERED BY CARRIER

Effective November 26, 1961, the subscription rate for The Democrat, or The Capital, delivered in Sedalia daily and Sunday by carrier will be 40c per week. The single copy price of The Democrat, or The Capital, will remain at 10c per copy daily, or 15c per copy Sunday.

Progressive increases in costs of newspaper materials, services and production make this adjustment necessary. The adjusted weekly rate compares favorably with subscription rates charged by these other newspapers of comparable size and circulation: Jefferson City 45c per week; Hannibal and Cape Girardeau 40c per week; Pittsburg, Kan., 50c per week and Hutchinson 40c per week. In Illinois: Freeport, Dixon, Elgin, Kewanee, LaSalle, Moline, Ottawa, Pekin, all 40c per week. In Iowa: Spencer, Ottumwa, Muscatine, Marshalltown, Mason City, Fairfield, Fort Dodge, Iowa City, Dubuque and Davenport all 40c per week, and Council Bluffs and Cedar Rapids, 45c per week.

Democrat and Capital newspaperboys on home delivery routes will share in the additional revenue provided by this rate adjustment. They will make their first collection at the new rate for the week of Nov. 26 to Dec. 2.

Prime Education Pumps

Move to Donate Corporate Funds Is Gaining Impetus

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago, one of America's most powerful business executives, facing a packed house in a Boston theater, defended the practice of giving corporate money away.

The incident symbolized new thinking that might turn business into one of the main financial props of higher education.

Indeed, such support already is considerable.

When the returns are in, they probably will show that business and industry gave colleges and universities $150 million in 1961—more than one fifth of this with no strings attached.

A large share, including all the unrestricted contributions, went to small independent schools, many of them church-related, lacking taxpayer support and struggling to make ends meet.

Backers of the movement, led by some of the most illustrious names in business, have set a goal of $500 million a year by 1970, or one fourth of money expected by colleges then from voluntary support and one eighteenth of the $9 billion anticipated from all sources.

This compares with $24 million contributed in 1948.

An estimated 35,000 of the country's 800,000 businesses—or just under 5 per cent—chipped in this year to swell the flow of funds. Many give systematically, each year.

The man on the Boston theater stage, conducting his company's annual stockholders' meeting, was M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

He directs the nation's No. 2 corporation with gross sales of nearly $9 billion in 1960.

Rathbone's firm pioneered in regular corporate giving to colleges. It remains one of the leaders. In the last five years, Jersey Standard handed out nearly $9.5 million to 494 schools.

His spirited defense of giving money away was in answer to a stockholder critic who complained that some funds were channeled to institutions which "teach socialism and ridicule business men, savers and investors."

Rathbone said he had no brief for this sort of thinking. He went on:

"And yet, this goes to the heart of the Bill of Rights. We have freedom in this country which few other countries have to the same extent, and these freedoms must be protected.

"If we reserve judgment to any small group of people as to what's right and what's wrong, with the ability of expression, we have lost something we can't afford to lose.

"In effect, we have to take a bit of the bitter with the sweet."

Gives Wrong Impression

Says Religious Dissension Distorts View of Country

NEW YORK (AP)—Dissension among religious groups in the United States has given many foreign churchmen a distorted picture of our country, a prominent American layman reports after a two-month tour abroad.

D. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will report his findings in detail Monday at the NCCJ annual meeting in Washington.

"Misunderstanding of the U.S. conception of the separation of church and state was widespread among European church leaders," Dr. Jones said. His NCCJ mission was largely to help correct these impressions, for two main reasons.

Statements and actions of religious leaders in Europe, he said, sometimes unwittingly contribute to religious conflicts here in America.

These mostly concern church-state relations and, while easily understood by a European audience, can be just as easily misunderstood by Americans whose view of proper church-state relations is different. Thus European church leaders often are unaware that a statement could have unfortunate results among followers of their faith in America, he said.

His second reason for explaining the American attitude toward church and state was simply "to seek better understanding between nations."

He said some of the churchmen in Europe are "far ahead of us in interfaith dialogue—particularly those in West Germany and the Low countries."

Dr. Jones said mutual understanding—and its resulting good—can come about only if communication lines are opened internationally in the same way his organization strives to promote interfaith discussions in America.

Some of the churchmen with whom Dr. Jones conversed included Augustin Cardinal Bea, Vatican secretary for Christian unity; The Rev. William Simpson of the British Council of Christians and Jews; Israel's Chief Rabbi Yitzhak Nissim; Dr. Vissert 't Hooft of the World Council of Churches; Orthodox Bishop Emilianos Timiadis of Geneva, and others.

Dr. Jones, 61, formerly was president of Rutgers University, of Bennington College in Vermont, and of the University of Arkansas.

The Nebraska-born Episcopalian also has served widely as a labor mediator and as a consultant for various government agencies and civic associations, and knows from experience the value of face-to-face negotiation.

Three Films About Twist In Progress

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film industry has decided the twist is a great shake, and three movies about the dance craze are in the works.

The other film makers will have to go some to beat wily Sam Katzman, who this week had his twisters going at cyclonic speed. His "Twist Around the Clock" may set a new record for getting a film to market.

"I wanted to do this picture a month ago," said Katzman, the man who gave you "Earth vs. the Flying Saucers" and "Uranium Boom." "Columbia said it was just a passing fad.

"Two weeks ago they changed their mind. Go ahead, they said. So I grabbed a plane for New York to line up the talent and phoned back here to get the script going. Within eight days we were in front of the cameras.

"I think we got a strong story, about a record-show guy who isn't doing well and then discovers the twist. We'll have the picture in New York and Chicago by Christmas. Judging by the bookings so far, I think I've got as big a winner as 'Rock Around the Clock.' Made that one for $200,000 and it grossed $5 million."

Katzman, who has the look of an overcoat maker in a bad winter, was watching paternally as his charges staged the first day's scene—the finale. "We've got to do the ending first because we've got some of these people for only three-four days," the producer explained. His shooting schedule is seven days.

Onstage were a part of the hierarchy of twistdom — Chubby

Checkers, the leader himself. Di- on, Clay Coie, Vicki Spencer and the Marcells, all a-quiver with the twisting fervor. On the dance floor were two or three dozen dancers, going like crazy.

Afterwards I sought more information about the dance from Chubby Checkers, an earnest, overweight young man who made a record of "The Twist" a year ago and helped propel the dance to national nottiness.

"Something like the twist comes along only once every 30 years," said Chubby, who is, as seems necessary in pop music nowadays, a Philadelphian. "The reason it's so great is because it's so simple. Anybody can do it. Even you can do it."

Troop 76 of Washington School met Nov. 9. Mrs. Coates, the leader, wrote a Morse code on the board, which was, "What is the purpose of a badge?" Each Girl Scout wrote an answer. The rest of the meeting was spent discussing badges. The other leader of this troop is Mrs. Gale Oehrke.

Troop 67 of Sacred Heart School met Nov. 8 with its leaders, Mrs. Everett Baugher and Mrs. Fred Karigan. The meeting opened with a prayer, after which dues were collected. The girls practiced on a Thanksgiving Day song and dance. The troop made pine cone turkey tray favors, and plan to present them to the Sedalia Rest Home. New Officers Elected

Junior Garden Club Names Peggy Fischer to Presidency

Peggy Fischer was elected president of the Sedalia Junior Garden Club for the year 1962, at the meeting of that organization Wednesday, at the Sedalia Public Library.

Other officers elected were Cathy Anderson, first vice-president; Cynthia Stauffacher, second vice-president; Sandra Kreisel, secretary and Ann McMullin, treasurer.

The new officers will be installed at the January meeting. Sue McMullin, president, presided over the meeting which opened with the Junior Garden Club pledge and the conservation pledge, in unison.

An announcement was made that the three by five, 50 star American flags, purchased by the Junior Garden Club from money made at the Chrysanthemum Tea, had been delivered to the four rest homes in Sedalia, by Mrs. P. L. Strole, Sue McMullin, Ann McMullin, Cynthia Stauffacher and Virginia Mae Stumpf, and the thoughtfulness of the little girls was greatly appreciated by the people in the homes.

The schedule of the Christmas display at the Sedalia Public Library on Dec. 2 and 3 was also announced and plans were made to participate.

The committee to prepare the scrapbook of the year's work reported the scrapbook is ready to send to the state awards chairman. The members of the Sedalia Junior Garden Club plan to make gift books on flowers and gardening to the children's room at the library, with Miss Mary English, librarian to make the selection.

The papers turned in for the contest on "What the Junior Garden Club means to Me," will be judged and prizes given at the December meeting.

The topic for the month was "Thanksgiving Favors — Garden Therapy — Buena Vista."

The members are making 50 Thanksgiving favors ready to take to Buena Vista.

The program was presented by Virginia Mae Stumpf, who read a poem "The First Thanksgiving;" Mrs. P. L. Strole, general chairman of the Sedalia Junior Garden

'Laughfical' Therapy Helps
Youngster Look to Future

Something funny had just happened at the Crippled Children's Center and members of the staff were laughing.

"That must be laughfical therapy," wisecracked 9-year-old James Rennison as he lifted his head as high as he could to look at them.

The grownups looked at each other. James had known one kind of therapy after another and now he suggested one that they felt might be a good therapy for everybody. It could cure many ailments.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rennison, Route 3,

James Rennison

Sedalia, and is a cerebral palsy child, whose muscles don't work just right but who has a supreme range in intelligence and has a real future. The University of Missouri, Columbia, now has put in an elevator to take care of young people like James, who cannot get around very well, but who want to go through college.

James continually wisecracks, and the things that he says amaze the staff.

When they were urging him one day to try to walk he commented: "Why should I—I'm going to make a living pushing a pencil anyway."

The reason, however, is because he has a fear. Some day, they are certain, he will overcome this fear and walk with crutches. He had the same fear of having his picture taken at first—he was afraid of the flash bulbs, but now he is ready any time anyone shows up with a camera.

When they gave him a peg board on which to build a little city which is something they use for the small children at the Center, he was disgusted. "It's ridiculous for a boy my age to do this," he told them.

But they finally convinced him that this was to help him use his hands, and he does extremely well in working the peg board.

They got some little wooden cars but they didn't have holes in them. The young woman therapist said she would put some holes in them so the little cars would fit on the pegs. He tried to argue with her that she couldn't do it, but when she came back the little cars worked beautifully.

"Well," he said as if surprised, "You've got brains in that gorgeous head of yours."

Among James' close friends is Bill Clark, the taxi driver who has taken him back and forth to and from the Crippled Children's Center for the past three years, ever since Rennisons moved here from Smithton. If other taxi drivers showed up James refused to go. He wanted Bill.

Bill has two little boys of his own, and he loves children. He has become, it seems, the official taxi driver for the Crippled Children's Center and sometimes he has four or five of the youngsters. The staff at the Center marvels at how he handles them.

"I know which ones to put in front and which ones to put in the back," said Bill—"each has a different temperament and I know which is likely to get into mischief or get hurt."

There came a time when Bill saw that somebody else was going to have to take James part of the time because he had to take these other children and so he went to the Rennison home where he talked to James and his mother. He explained the situation and James agreed. So now on Tuesdays and Thursdays another driver, James Lawson, takes James, and the youngster has now grown very fond of Lawson, too.

James, according to Bill Clark, can talk on any subject, and does. He'll talk politics, history or anything, and he reads a lot, too. They don't have to be children's books for James, he reads anything. He is very inquisitive, always asking questions. Sometimes it is hard to keep up with him.

When his teacher, who had been away a few days, and whose place was taken by her assistant, returned to the center James commented: "Now here's the real McCoy."

James had a social problem at first—but not any more. He has overcome it completely and is ready to talk to anybody. He has overcome many other of his problems, too, and will overcome still more, in time.

There is never a dull moment around James. He constantly comes up with something unexpected and something clever. The staff might give him other types of therapy but when it comes to "laughfical therapy" he is a past master as a therapist.

Someday this little boy will be able to make his way in the world by, as he says, pushing a pencil, just because there was a Crippled Children's Center in Sedalia. If there hadn't been he would still be shy of people and sitting at home not able to do things.

Sunday is a day to buy a share in that Crippled Children's Center, a share in James' future and the future of hundreds of other little boys and girls—for the Crippled Children's Center is the step that leads to a future. A share sells for anything anybody wants to give—a big sum or a widow's mite.

Erect Memorial To Victims of Red Wall

BERLIN — An organization called "Indivisible Germany" dedicated a memorial Friday to the victims of the wall the Communists have built across Berlin.

The memorial was built near the Brandenburg Gate, 150 yards from the wall itself.

The memorial, made of the same concrete block material as the wall, bears the inscription "Your freedom is our cause." The organization urged West Berliners to lay flowers at the monument Sunday, since the Communists are not permitting them to visit cemeteries in East Berlin.

News of Interest To Mid-Missourians

CALIFORNIA — The annual Home Economics Extension Club Achievement Day is a great occasion in the lives of extension club members in Moniteau County. This year the event was especially pleasant because there were 71 guests who registered from Camden, Dent and Franklin Counties. Other guests who registered were from the California and Tipton area.

Miss Manie Vaughan, president of the Home Economics Council, presided at the meeting. Mr. Russell Maag, through the arrangements of the Extensionettes Club, provided special music. Mrs. Loy Allee, a long time and charter member of the Donkey Club, conducted the installation of officers for 1962. Officers installed were: Mrs. Richard Cook, president of the Council; Mrs. Norman Aegerter, vice-president; Mrs. Rex Snodgrass, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. James Dahler, reporter. New club presidents were also installed.

They were: Mrs. Edward Pettigrew, Circle L; Mrs. Charles Stephens, Donkey; Mrs. James Dahler, Extensionettes; Mrs. Max Bloch, Friendly Neighbors; Mrs. C. W. Aegerter, Happy Home; Mrs. Richard Cook, Inspiration; Mrs. Robert Basinger, Monday; Mrs. E. D. Murphy, Sunshine; Mrs. Quentin Haldiman, Triple S; Mrs. L. A. Hartman, Willow Fork; and Mrs. G. L. Peters, Wonder Workers.

Mr. Kent Mackey, manager of Carps Store, presented the 4-H leadership award as sponsored by the Missouri Retail Council, to the Inspiration Extension Club, located in the McGirk community. This is the second year the Moniteau County Home Economics Clubs have participated in this program. Awards are made on the basis of activities performed to assist 4-H Clubs through contributions of money, recognition program, furnishing leaders and assisting in 4-H club programs in other ways.

The highlight of the Achievement Day program was the demonstration, "There's Magic in Hats" by Mrs. Arlene Powell, County Home Agent for Cole County. Mrs. Powell exhibited approximately 20 hats made of various fabrics, furs, and feathers. Much interest was shown in this program and some women were of the opinion that many women in Moniteau County would be sporting their own creations by next year.

The Inspiration Extension Club conducted the International Penny March for the Moniteau County contribution to the Associated Country Women of the World.

Refreshments were served from a tea table by Circle L and Monday Extension Clubs. The tea table was prepared by the Sunshine Extension Club.

Floral decoration on the piano and in other strategic spots were done by Happy Home Club. The favors, which were miniature hats, were made by the Wonder Workers Extension Club, and the Friendly Neighbors Club acted as hostess at the door. Triple S and Monday Clubs were responsible for clean-up, while the Willow Fork Extension Club assisted with the 4-H leadership award.

VERSAILLES — Members of the Morgan County Post 104 of the American Legion and the Auxiliary held its annual basket dinner in the American Legion Hall Monday evening. A large crowd attended.

Following the dinner the Auxiliary held a business meeting with Mrs. Earl Goddard presiding.

Gifts to be given veterans in hospitals, brought by the members, were on display.

The Legion Hall will be cleaned by members, it was announced.

The meeting then closed with prayer by Mrs. K. A. Goodman.

TIPTON — Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Koehner and two of their children, Kirk, 4, and Kyle, 3, left for parts of Missouri and Kansas to spend a visit of several days with his brothers and a sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry McPherson and son, Philip, Minneapolis, Minn., spent a few days in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wolf and Mrs. Nora McPherson.

TIPTON — The Irene Branum Circle of the Baptist Church met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Grover Stahl. Ten members and six children were present.

Mrs. Stahl, chairman, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Harold Burriss was in charge of the program. Mrs. J. A. Conn gave the devotional. Those taking part on the program were, Mrs. Fred Koehner, Mrs. Bill Dawson, Mrs. Jacob Zulauf, Mrs. Oscar Stratman, Mrs. Jack Price and Mrs. Oscar Bloch.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The hostess presented each one present with a winter corsage.

GREEN RIDGE — M-Sgt. and Mrs. Vernon E. Palmer, North Sacramento, Calif., were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Palmer, at their home for several days. Enroute they visited Sgt. Palmer's brother, M-Sgt. Harold A. Palmer, Colorado Springs, Colo. After visiting friends in Belton and at Albuquerque, N.M., they plan to return home.

Ivan Beemer, who has been serving with the United States Army in Germany for the past 14 months, was called home by the serious illness of his father, Leslie Beemer.

Ed Geigley has returned to his home in Green Ridge after spending two weeks at Stuttgart, Ark. as a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Elderidge and family.

A-1c Charles R. Livengood, Jr., Green Ridge, who is stationed at Whiteman AFB near Knob Noser, ter, is attending an Air Force school at Sheppard Air Force Base in Texas. A-1c Livengood spent the weekend with his wife and son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vannoy.

GREEN RIDGE—Guy Ridenour was honored at a turkey dinner in celebration of his birthday anniversary Sunday at his home in Green Ridge.

Those present were: the hostess, Mrs. Guy Ridenour and daughter, Sharon, Newton McDonald, Knob Noster, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ridenour and son, Robert, and

Recognition Night Is Held for 4-H Youths

The 4-H Recognition Night program was presented Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Smith-Cotton auditorium, with Barry Ellis, president of the Pettis County 4-H Council, as master of ceremonies.

The Danforth Awards presented to the 4-H boy and girl who are the top 4-H members judged from a standard report turned in, went to Jerry Gordon, Eldorado 4-H Club, and Karen Rissler, Quisenberry 4-H Club. A book written by William H. Danforth, entitled "I Dare You" in which young people are told to live tall, and a certificate, was presented to each by E. L. Birdsong, County Court Judge, Eastern District.

The Key Awards, presented by William Charles Hanning, Cities Service Company representative, were received by Albert Anderson, Longwood Neighbors; Carol Brandhorst, Smelser; Linda Calis, Hughesville Happy Helpers; William Claycomb, Longwood Neighbors; Kim Dabner, Striped College; Richard Middleton, South Abell and Larry Wilson, Quisenberry Hustlers. Only one per cent of the 4-H members of Pettis County can receive this award which is given to seven members. They must be 16 years old, have had five years of 4-H work and have a score of at least 100 to receive it.

The "Friend of 4-H" award, which is a plaque, was presented to the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, and was accepted by Sam Boyle, president and manager of the chamber. The presentation was made by Barry Ellis. This award is one of appreciation either to an organization or individuals for things they have done for 4-H clubs. The awards were given for the first time last year and at that time went to individuals. This year it is an organization.

Another outstanding award given was the 4-H Alumni Winner award which was presented to George Moyer, manager of Safeway Store.

The presentation of this award was made by Merle Vaughan, County Agent. The award is given in recognition of success in their career of a former 4-H member.

The club awards were presented by Lloyd Lewellen, Associate County Agent, to the Striped College 4-H Club for county and state recognition for Health, with Mrs. Ted Dabner, 4-H community leader, accepting the award; South Abell 4-H Club, for county and state Recreation recognition with Mrs. Ralph Thomas, 4-H community leader, accepting; and in county Safety recognition to R-I Hustlers 4-H Club, Mrs. Louis Staples, 4-H community leader, and Striped College 4-H, Mrs. Ted Dabner, 4-H community leader, accepting.

Mary Donna Moore, Georgetown 4-H Club, and George Nix, III, Horace Mann Go Getters 4-H Club, received the Junior Leader Public Speaking Award, with S. H. Clow, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., making the presentation.

The program opened with the pledge of allegiance to the American flag and 4-H pledge followed by the group singing led by Pamela Long and Florence Arnold, 4-H Council song leaders with Donna Eckles, 4-H Council pianist, at the piano.

Big Turtles Get a Boost In Caribbean

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Giant green turtles, once numerous but now almost extinct, may soon be cruising the Caribbean again, providing needed food for the poor of a dozen countries.

In years past the armored monsters, weighing 300 pounds or more, roamed the Mexican Gulf and Caribbean, abundant as buffalo used to be in America's West.

Today they have almost disappeared from the area except for a black sand beach called Tortuguero in northwest Costa Rica, and a small and comparatively insignificant breeding ground off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

Tortuguero — Tortuga is the Spanish word for turtle — is believed the Caribbean's last big nesting place.

Dr. Archie Carr of the University of Florida is pioneering a project to protect the remaining turtles, speed up breeding, open new breeding fields, and get the giant turtle armadas sailing again.

The Costa Rican government has promised to protect a five-mile strip of the beach and help with supervision. So far Mexico has done little to preserve its eastern Yucatan grounds.

Milton J. Lindner, regional fishery officer stationed with the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, said the Costa Rican project could provide Central America and portions of South America with meat.

What Dr. Carr is doing is twofold: First the Tortuguero beach is being protected from natives, wild dogs and private interests that capitalize on turtle meat exports. Second, thousands of little turtles are being flown to Florida and other spots to launch new breeding grounds.

The Caribbean Conservation Corporation, founded in 1959, assists the project. Already, turtles marked with its CCC metal plaques have been found as far away as Colombia.

Why have the turtles become almost extinct? Although fast and even graceful in the water, they are clumsy and almost stupid ashore where they come to lay eggs. They are easily caught, their eggs easily found.

Meat-hungry natives, wild dogs and other animals have almost wrecked breeding grounds. Exploitation by commercial exporters is another reason why the giants have almost disappeared.

Christmas Show By Garden Clubs Slated On Dec. 3

The Christmas Show will be held by the Sedalia Garden Clubs at the Public Library on Saturday, Dec. 2, from 1 to 6 p.m. and on Sunday, Dec. 3, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The theme this year will be "Christmas Melody" and the arrangements which will be made for the public to enjoy and to give them ideas in Christmas decorations they could make for their own homes, will be on display on the second floor of the library.

Following the theme classifications are offered in which those making arrangements may use their own interpretations using titles of songs. The classifications include: "White Christmas," "Jingle Bells," which is door decorations; "Silent Night," "Joy to the World," in which a madonna is used; "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," using Christmas bells; "We Three Kings of Orient Are;" "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer;" and "Jolly Old Saint Nick."

There will also be a mantel arrangement by the Past Presidents' Club, on the song: "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," and a table arrangement by the Sedalia Council of Garden Clubs, "The Holly and the Ivy."

Mrs. E. E. Brummet is general chairman of the show and members of her committee are the exhibit chairmen from each of the eight clubs, Mrs. Tracy York, Mrs. W. L. Layne, Mrs. Henry Holst, Mrs. R. V. Miller, Mrs. L. J. May, Mrs. Leonard Hall and Mrs. George L. Dryden.

HISTORIC CHURCH—A 117-year-old church at New Digings, Wis., has been granted a new lease on life. Designated as a historic building by the Library of Congress, it will be restored by the local Knights of Columbus. The 1844 all-wood church, St. Augustine's, was one of 24 built by an Italian missionary, the Rev. Samuel C. Mazzuchelli. It is the only one of his original Greco-Gothic churches that has survived without major changes into the 20th century.

Fear Food Stamp Plan May Fall With Cuts In Budget

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's effort to hold down spending during the 1963 fiscal year has stirred doubts about the future of the Agriculture Department's food stamp plan.

There is concern among advocates that the plan may fall victim of the budget-balancing drive.

Broad use of the stamp plan was promised by the Democrats during the 1960 presidential campaign. Moving to carry out that promise, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman set up a program last spring under which the plan is being tried out in eight areas of the country.

The purpose of this trial was to determine the feasibility of extending it nationally.

Under this plan, needy persons get government-issued stamps for use in buying foods at grocery stores. The government redeems stamps through banks. It replaces a direct government food distribution plan in effect elsewhere.

This plan makes use of food surplus the government acquired in price support and market stabilization efforts.

A nationally operated food stamp plan would cost considerably more than the present direct food distribution program. There have been various estimates of possible cost, ranging from a $30 million to more than $1 billion a year.

The cost would be governed by a number of factors, including standards set for determining eligibility to participate and the degree to which the plan would seek to raise dietary standards.

Stamp plan sponsors are concerned because the plan falls into a category of programs which are not required by law. This is not true of such programs as farm price supports, acreage reduction and crop control programs.

These latter programs now require a large part of the Agriculture Department budget. About the only way costs of these programs could be reduced would be to cut price support rates. But that would not be good politics because Democrats have promised to boost farm income.

The administration is committed—and required by law—to offer substantial payments to farmers next year for reducing feed grain production. So no cutback is possible here.

Another costly program is the food-for-peace plan under which large quantities of extra supplies are moved abroad at cut-rate prices payable in local currencies which are used in turn to help promote economic development abroad. The administration

He pointed out that the center is offering all of the services possible with the amount of floor space available. Failure to raise enough money in today's sale would not result in closing the center but would necessitate curtailment of some services being offered.

Regular donors that have been contributing to the center have or will receive by mail a bond showing the amount of the contributions made during the year.

She has worked to create interest in the observance in other cities over the state in Know Your America Week, as well as assisting with the local club as a member of Mrs. Keim's committee.

Other members of Mrs. Keim's committee are Mrs. Louise Altwater, Mrs. Loyce Carney, Mrs. Lavina Coontz, Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, Mrs. Rose Hausam, Mrs. Burleigh Jeffries, Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer, Miss Marguerite O'Connell, Miss Hazel Palmer, Mrs. Jacquetta Prowell, Mrs. Shirley Wagner, Miss Mary Ann Schaffer, Mrs. Ella Starkey and Miss Mary Vogelsang.

Accidents

Cliff O. Schrader, 48, 411 East 27th, received minor injuries about 8 o'clock Friday night in a two-vehicle crash at 32nd street and Grand Ave. Extensive damage resulted to the two vehicles involved.

Schrader was driving a 1952 Chevrolet pickup truck and was headed west on 32nd while a 1957 Ford hardtop sedan was enroute south on Grand when the two collided in the intersection. The Ford car was driven by Paul D. Gottschalk, 17, of LaMonte, who said he was enroute to the Tony's Roller Rink, and was going about 25 miles per hour. Schrader reported he was traveling between 12 and 15 miles per hour.

The two vehicles swerved to the southeast, the Ford knocking down some fence railing in front of the home of John Zulauf, crashing into guy wiring to an electric pole while the Chevrolet truck stopped on the edge of the lawn.

Schrader was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. Karl Gonsner made an examination and released him. Schrader suffered an abrasion on his forehead, complained of a back injury and an injury to the left shoulder.

Bacon's wrecker towed the sedan away and Shoemaker's wrecker the truck.

No injuries were received in a two-car accident at 6:37 p.m. in the 700 block on 16th. Saturday.

Involved were a parked 1960 Volkswagen sports car, parked by Peggy Sue Berkstresser, 20, 1999 East 12th, and a 1956 Chrysler driven by Lonnie E. Bohon, 24, 2310 East Ninth.

According to the police accident report, the Volkswagen was parked, and the Chrysler backed into it while attempting to leave a parking space. The front end of the Volkswagen was damaged, while no damage occurred to the Chrysler.

100 Per Cent Record Set

Attendance Contest Ends For Local Kiwanis Club

Sedalia Kiwanians ate higher on the beef than they have done for years at their luncheon meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon when filet mignons were served to members and guests in celebration of the conclusion of an October attendance contest.

The original plan called for members of the defeated team to eat beans, and the winners to eat steaks. However, the campaign under leadership of Robert Fritz, attendance committee chairman, and Stanley Clow and Robert Haley, team captains, that both teams established a record of 10 per cent attendance.

President William Schien complimented the club on this unusual performance. He also called attention to another record established by the announcement Vice-President elect Dan Robinson had already selected names of all program chairmen for the months of 1962 as well as setting the date for annual Pancake day, Jan. 13 and formulating plans so far in advance.

Clarence Klingner, Extension Economist with the University of Missouri, was the speaker in connection with the club's observance of Farm-City Week which Kiwanis International was partly responsible for establishing. He noted the importance of recognizing the interdependence between prosperity on Missouri farms and the economic health of her towns and cities. He pointed particularly to the annual $14,000,000 sale of farm products in Pettis county which can be computed to reach $20,000,000 through transportation and processing before it reaches the consumer. He emphasized that in the aggregate that agriculture is not a declining industry but is undergoing revolutionary adjustments to its own economic growth while making tremendous contributions to the economic growth of the country as a whole.

The speaker was introduced by County Agent Merle Vaughan. John Cook was program chairman.

Invocation was by the Rev. William E. Lusk. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Miss Lillian Fox, accompanist. Birthday greetings were sung for Dr. A. J. Campbell, Bill Dugan, Kenzie Miller and Robert Mullen.

"The purpose of the assembly," he added, "is to promote education of Jehovah's Witnesses in teaching others concerning God's kingdom."

Meyer has been designated as auditing department supervisor.

Harold Vick, retired, after many years of residence in South Africa, was inducted as a new Kiwanian by the Rev. Walter D. Niles assisted by President Schien.

President Schien announced that because of the Thanksgiving holiday, Kiwanians would meet jointly with the Lions club in Bothwell hotel Wednesday noon, Nov. 22.

Kiwanian Don Middleton, of Wichita, Kans., former member of the Sedalia club, was a guest of Job Harned.

VOTE FOR THE SEDALIA AIRPORT BOND PROPOSAL

SPECIAL BOND ELECTION TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1961 - 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

3,000	1.80
4,000	2.40
5,000	3.00
6,000	3.60

Think, Sedalia! An Adequate Airport Is Necessary For Progress!

We are living in an age of air transportation, when the movement of people quickly is an important part of the modern, competitive tempo of business and industry.

This is an age when a community such as ours will either keep pace with modern trends, or gradually lag far behind, while other cities of comparable size reap the rewards which adequate airport facilities and air transportation make possible.

Sedalia has an opportunity to take another forward step by voting "yes" for the $200,000 airport bond proposal next Tuesday. Many months ago Ozark Air Lines asked the Federal Civil Aeronautics Board for a certificate of approval to service Sedalia when airport facilities were adequate. Approval was given approximately two years ago.

Passage of this bond proposal will lead to two air flights each day to the east and two flights each day to the west. It will mean that Sedalia can send and receive fast air mail service. It will mean that Sedalia will be connected with fast, world-wide air travel and be able to get back into the running for industrial growth.

By voting favorably for this airport bond proposal, Sedalia will receive $207,000.00 from the Federal Government to make Sedalia an important Mid-Missouri air terminal! For the good of our community, for the future growth of our community, we should not let this opportunity pass.

* Sedalia's portion in this airport work will amount to $200,000.00, since the city has already purchased and paid for a part of the needed land. The Federal Government will reimburse the City for this early purchase with matching funds, provided the bond proposal is favorably acted upon next Tuesday.

It's Up To Us! Our Plan Is In The Federal Budget!

Outdoor Lighting Can Be Beautiful, But Dangerous

By MR. FIX
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This is the time of year when the amateur electrician — with a touch of the artist in him — comes into his own and house after house gets bedecked with colorful Christmas lights.

A breakdown in matters electrical can be annoying at best, but it is more often downright dangerous.

Before you make any elaborate plans, drag out last year's strings of lights and inspect them carefully. If they pass the visual test for broken or frayed insulation, cracked or damaged sockets, then plug in each string separately.

Shake String
Shaking the string will show up loose connections or shorts in the wiring. You'll also be able to determine how many new bulbs you need. Get enough so that you will have extras on hand.

If you are planning outdoor displays, make certain that you are using wiring and bulbs designed for outdoor use.

Indoors or out, use lights wired in parallel rather than in series. If one bulb burns out, the others will continue burning.

Word of Caution
A word of caution at this point about strings of lights and the artificial aluminum Christmas tree. Do not decorate such trees with lights. Aluminum will conduct electricity. A short in the wiring could result in a serious shock to anyone touching the tree. To light an aluminum tree, use colored spotlights set up at a distance from the tree.

Avoid overloading circuits. The ordinary 15-ampere branch circuit can handle a load of about 1,800 watts. Multiply the number of lamps by the wattage of each, which you will find marked on the lamp or the carton in which it came.

The average indoor incandescent bulb is rated at about 6.5 watts. A similar outdoor bulb uses about 10 watts. A spot or flood light uses 150 watts. When you total the wattage don't forget other lamps or appliances that may be using the same circuit.

Weatherproof Cords
Use rubber-covered, weather-proof extension cords for outdoor wiring. If your home lacks a regular outdoor outlet, plug the extension into a porch or garage light. Wherever you join plugs and connectors outdoors, wrap them with electrician's tape. Or make a covering of plastic film, sealing the edges with electrician's plastic tape.

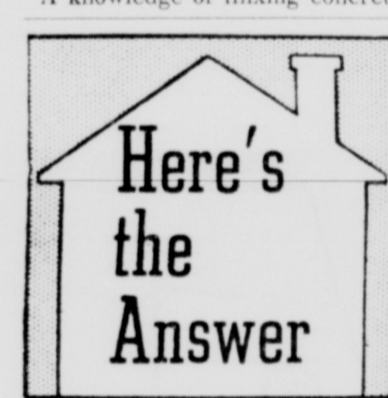

Use insulated staples to fasten wires to surfaces of displays. If wire is strung along under the eaves, use screw hooks, but don't pass the wire through the hook. Tape the wire to the hook with plastic tape. This will prevent the wire from rubbing against the hook or the eaves. Brass cup hooks will weather best.

Light Spots
Displays can be lighted with floods or spots. Make certain that you buy weatherproof reflector type bulbs. Special outdoor receptacles also are available. They're equipped with long metal spikes so they can be anchored almost anywhere.

Getting back indoors again, remember that a cut tree dries out eventually and becomes a fire hazard. Once it's bought, keep it moist. Before you put it up keep it in water or moist sand. Use a stand that will hold water and be sure to replenish the supply.

QUESTION: We want to use enamel in painting our bathroom. Is this advisable or should we use some other kind of paint? Also, can you help us on color schemes? Should the ceiling be the same color as the walls?

ANSWER: Enamel is ideal for a bathroom, since its moisture-resistant finish prevents vapor from seeping through the walls and damaging the wood. It also can be washed frequently without damage. Trying to help you with your color scheme is difficult, because personal preference should be the primary factor in making a selection. However, if you are looking for flattering colors which enhance complexion in the mirror, try the pinks, roses and corals, as well as pure greens and golds. This is especially true where there is fluorescent lighting. The ceiling can be a contrasting color. A warm pink ceiling, for instance, provides a flattering overhead light reflection.

is almost a must for any homeowner who does his own repairs. It isn't as though he's about to pour his own basement or swimming pool, it's just that concrete walks and drives sometimes develop cracks and masonry may need pointing.

If the handyman once gets the hang of handling concrete, he will discover that it is a relatively inexpensive building material and that it might be worthwhile to tackle something larger—an outdoor fireplace or a garage floor.

Cement Basic
Portland cement is the basic ingredient for concrete and mortar. The cement, along with water, forms a paste that holds together the fine and coarse materials — known as aggregates — that are in the mixture.

The fine aggregate is sand. The sand should be free of dirt, clay, bits of grass or leaves or any other foreign matter.

The coarse aggregate is made up of pebbles or crushed stone.

Fine Aggregates
Fine aggregate includes everything — short of dust — that will pass through a 4-inch screen. Coarse aggregates range from 1/4 inch up to 1 1/2 inches.

Water should be clean. Make it a practice to use water that is clean enough for drinking. Dirt — whether it is in the water or the aggregates — will produce an inferior grade of concrete.

The proportions in which these materials are used depends on the sort of concrete you want and the amount of moisture already present in the aggregate — especially the sand.

Damp Sand
The Portland Cement Assn. defines damp sand as that which feels damp to the touch but leaves little moisture on the hands. Wet sand feels wet and leaves some moisture on the hands when it is handled. Very wet sand is dripping wet.

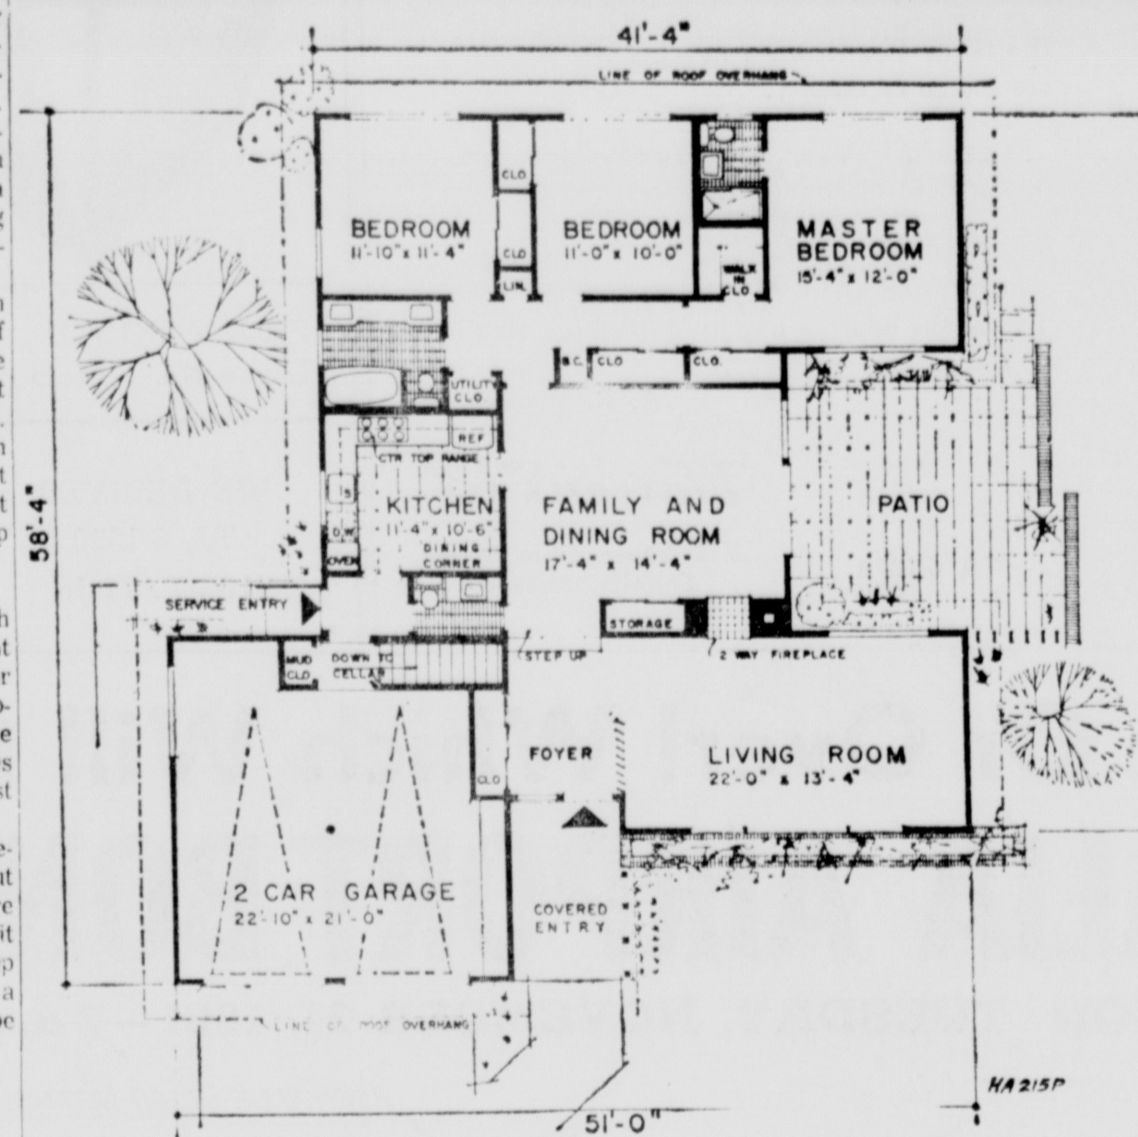

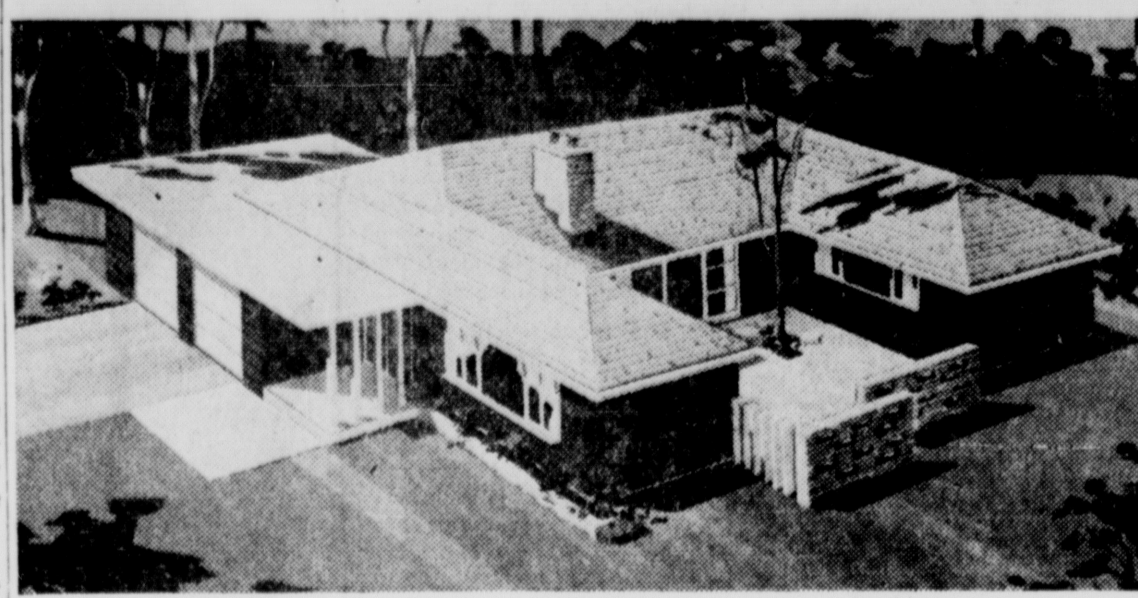

The amount of water to be used in a mixture will vary, depending on the wetness of the sand. But the amount of water contained in any particular mixture will remain the same.

Hence in a six-gallon mixture in which wet sand is used, only five gallons of water will be added. The other gallon is already present in the sand.

Concrete subject to severe wear and weathering requires a five-gallon paste — five gallons water to one sack of cement — 2 cubic feet of sand and 2 1/4 cubic feet of coarse aggregate. If the sand is very wet, use 3 1/2 gallons of water; wet, use 4 gallons of water; and damp, use 4 1/2 gallons of water.

Watertight Paste
A six-gallon paste is used for concrete that must be water-tight

Sewing Spot In Garage! Right Again

SEWING'S a pleasure in a pleasant center like this, which you'd scarcely recognize as having been a garage before its conversion to family uses. Storage cabinets and drawers are surfaced with Masonite walnut-grained hardboard, matching the decor of the room. The let-down table at the left matches the cabinet door at the right when in the closed position. Peg-Board inside the cabinets holds sewing supplies, and the machine is stored in a drawer when not in use. Made to take hard knocks, the hardboard has good looks and stamina. It was used also to cover storage doors at left and for lift-up benches (right).

or subject to moderate wear and weather. Water here would vary 4 1/4 for very wet, 5 gallons for wet and 5 1/2 gallons for damp sand. Use 2 1/2 cubic feet of sand, 3 1/2 cubic feet of coarse aggregate.

A seven-gallon paste is used for concrete not subject to wear, weather or water. Vary the water here with 4 1/4 gallons for very wet sand, 5 1/2 gallons for wet sand, 6 1/4 gallons for damp sand. Use three cubic feet of sand, four of coarse aggregate.

Never vary the amount of water. If the mixture is too wet add more sand and gravel. If it is too stiff to work, use less sand and gravel in the next batch. Experiment first with trial proportions.

Good Mix
A good mix can be poured easily and packed down so that it forms a dense mass. The pebbles or gravel should not fall out and should be completely surrounded by cement, sand and water.

A good reference leaflet for every handyman's collection is "Proper Mixes and Quantities of Materials for Small Concrete Jobs." It provides a chart for proper mixtures and for estimating the amount of materials needed for a job. It is available free from the Portland Cement Assn., 33 West Grand Ave., Chicago 10, Ill.

of warm-looking Masonite wood-grained paneling in a shade of walnut that blends with the furnishings the couple wanted.

This versatile woodgrained hardboard was used not only on the walls but as surfaces of the sewing center cabinets and drawers. Even storage doors adjacent to the home making oasis were covered in this manner, so that one would scarcely guess the place once was a garage, for the entire room radiates warmth and hospitality.

Made by Masonite Corporation, the walnut-grained hardboard is available at lumber yards. Durable and long-wearing, this attractive paneling has many superior qualities, not the least of which is its economy.

Features of the sewing center include a let-down table which, when closed, has the appearance of a cabinet door and matches the one on the other side of the seamstress when she is seated before the window.

Insulated studs, a space heater, while separate from the rest of the converted garage, the sewing space appears as an integral part of the improvement. This was made possible by the application, have.

Partitions Can Create More Room

One of the most effective ways to make a house or an apartment more attractive and livable is to partition existing rooms. Best of all, you can easily build partitions yourself without carpentry experience or power tools. There are many different uses for partitions, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Enclosing a portion of the kitchen, for example, provides a more pleasant, semi-private dining area. Similar improvements can be produced by partitioning studies out of living rooms or porches, and erecting vestibules around front doors.

Make one big bedroom into two smaller ones by means of partition. This idea is particularly useful to families with young children, for growing youngsters inevitably need rooms of their own.

Partitions consist simply of a framework made of 2 x 4 lumber covered with wood paneling or wall board; 2 x 4's are also used to frame doorways and other openings. Molding strips laid along the top of the partition offer easy means of hiding gaps between it and the ceiling.

If you have building plans, take them to a lumber dealer. For a nominal charge, he'll cut all the components to the right size. Then all you need do is put the pieces together with simple hand tools.

The use of angle braces and similar metal fasteners eliminates tricky nailing and permits much of the work to be pre-assembled on floor or table.

Most partitions, besides dividing unsatisfactory areas, also perform decorative functions. Instead of erecting a full floor-to-ceiling separator, for example — run it only part-way up. Instead of making a solid wall — design it with verti-

Rudy Vallee Talks About Getting Away

By WILLIAM GLOVER Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Rudy Vallee keeps talking about getting away from himself.

"I," says the first swoon crooner, "am a performer of right now, and don't want to keep living my damned past."

A top-rank comic is what he wants to be.

"That's the satisfaction I'm still looking for."

But as a canny showman, Vallee is capitalizing on vintage image in Broadway's new smash musical, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

"You've got to make it here or on the TV networks—nothing else matters nowadays."

Early in the show, Rudy cups his hands like a megaphone as he sings. An audience ovation infallibly follows.

"I'm constantly amazed so many people remember a little thing like that after all this time," he says.

His two ballads evoke more of the high-ho days. "Grand Old Ivy" is "The Maine Stein Song" and all other college chants rolled into one. "Love from a Heart of Gold" reprises the vagabond lover of "My Time is Your Time."

"No doubt about it, I can't lose the 1920s—I'm resigned to it."

Rudy lets the remark slide like a man who doesn't really believe it. Having ticked off his 60th birthday last July 28, Vallee gives no signs of easing off.

"I've had energy all my life—my parents were French-Irish and I was born with tremendous drive," he exclaims.

Besides the Broadway run ("I signed for only one year"), Vallee is doing some TV showcasing, planning a sequel to a humor record, and racing through assorted benefit appearances.

"After night club work it's a cinch."

Vallee has been busy on the supper club circuit since 1949; the show business area to which he turned when big time radio faded.

"Some of my material is fairly intellectual—but I get into low joints once in a while and know half of it is over their heads."

A candid crier, Rudy describes his material as an amalgam.

"I got a lot of material from Charlie Farrell of Miami, an old-timer in vaudeville and the greatest story teller of all. I sent him a lot of scotch and don't think he minded too much."

"I also use fractured French, some Corey Ford, Henry Youngman, and something I call skid talk. That's mental double exposure. Like the young man I overheard talking about me in a garage:

"You mean Vallee, the guy who sang in silent movies?"

Haleakala is on Maui Island. The view from the summit—

More than half of New York City's Manhattan borough could fit into the 19-square-mile cavity.

The visitor, looking through the glass shield of an observatory, sometimes lashed by winds of 100 miles an hour, gazes into an irregular, pumice-filled cleft dotted with cinder cones of many hues.

All-Conference Grid Selections

Two Smith-Cotton Tigers were selections on the All-Central Missouri Conference squad of 22 members. They were Dick Van Dyne, quarterback (left) and Arthur "Art" Wiggins, an end. They were selected by the coaches of the CMC circuit at their annual meeting in Columbia recently. On the right is Howard Christian, California high school Pinto half-back who was an All-Conference selection in the Tri-County Conference, conducted by their coaches recently.

All three football players are seniors in their respective high schools and graduate in the spring of 1962. The Van Dyne-Wiggins combination was cited for their pass completions, Wiggins being on the receiving end for several touchdown plays, three of which went for scores resulting in the Tigers drawing a tie game with their opponents three times.

Van Dyne has been playing since his eighth grade, and joined the varsity as a Freshman. He earned his Varsity letter the past three years.

Wiggins completed his fourth year with the Tiger squad and earned his varsity letter the past two years. Wiggins with his speed and height at end position made him a favorite target for Van Dyne's passes. Wiggins also specialized in the punting department.

Seven other members of the Tiger squad received honorable mention in the CMC selections: Bill McFarland, end; Charles Patterson, back; Bill Ferguson, back; Claiborn Campbell, end; Benny Thomas, guard; Walt Broom, guard; and Jim Stivers, center.

Christian has an exceptional good record. He carried the ball 133 times, yardage gained rushing was 1,115 for an 8.2 average. Gained 344 yards on kickoff run backs, punt returns, intercepted passes and pass receptions for a total for the season of 1,450. He also scored 99 of the Pinto points. His three year career shows 2,352 yards rushing, 291 carries of the ball for an 8.1 average, and scored 228 points.

MU Scores On 3 Long TD Drives

Sixth Conference Loss for K-State; Tigers Stand 4-2

COLUMBIA, Mo. (P)—The Missouri Tigers scored on three lengthy touchdown junkets and got a cheap one for an easy 27-9 victory over Kansas State in a Big Eight football game Saturday.

It was a costly win. Tuning up for their big game with the Kansas Jayhawks next Saturday, the Tigers lost four regulars, including both ends and two backs, by injuries in the roughly-played game before 29,000 in cold, windy weather.

The victory placed Missouri's Big Eight mark at -2 and season record at 6-2-1. It was the sixth conference loss for Kansas State which has lost seven in a row since winning its first two games.

Kansas State scored on Phil Barger's 31-yard field goal late in the first quarter—the only first period score against Missouri this season. The aroused Tigers struck back on touchdown drives of 67 and 68 yards in the second quarter for a 14-3 halftime lead.

But by that time, quarterback Ron Taylor, halfback Norm Beal and end Don Wainwright had been injured and helped from the field to soften Missouri's offensive and defensive corps.

End Conrad Hitchler was carried from the field early in the fourth quarter. None of the injured men returned to action.

Beal scored the first touchdown on a 2-yard slice off tackle. Beal's 31-yard run was the big strike in the drive. Mike Hunter passed 22 yards to Vince Turner for the second touchdown.

The Tigers' third touchdown was a gimme. A bad pass from center on a fourth down punting situation gave Missouri the ball on Kansas State's two. After a Wildcat jumped off side on the first play Andy Russell crashed through from the one.

Bill Tobin converted after each of the first three scores. Missouri, using all its available manpower, marched 68 yards in 15 plays for its final touchdown early in the fourth. Jim Johnson, filling in for Taylor, dived a yard over guard for the score. Tobin was wide on the try for extra point.

Kansas State, whose 107 yards rushing in the first half was the best against Missouri this season, got off a sustained drive of 74 yards for a touchdown that came in the last minute of play.

After halfback Joe Searies and fullback Bill Gallagher had collaborated in moving the ball to the Missouri 12, third string quarterback Fred Watts hit Ron McDonald with a touchdown pass.

An attempted pass play for a two-point conversion failed.

Warsaw Comes in Third

Cards Win PBCAA Crown; S-H Takes Consolation

Lincoln's Cardinals, seeded first in the PBCAA conference tournament at Cole Camp this week, Saturday night walked home with the championship trophy after defeating the Green Ridge Tigers 58-32.

The volleyball championship went to Cole Camp, who dropped Green Ridge 39-17. Higston served for 15 points for Cole Camp, and Bruns and Pottorff had four points each for Green Ridge.

Third place in the basketball contests went to Warsaw, who whipped Cole Camp 61-41 on the combined 36-point performance of Husong and Meyer. Schnackenberg led the Cole Camp attack with 16 points.

Lincoln's Cardinals led throughout the entire game and were never threatened. At half time, they held a 27-21 lead over Green Ridge, and in the following two quarters kept the Tigers down to 11 points while Lincoln rolled in 31. Frish was leading point-producer for Lincoln with 15 points, while Smith dropped in 10 for Green Ridge.

The Sacred Heart Gremlins, completing 48 per cent of their shots, whipped the LaMonte Vikings for the consolation trophy in the tournament Friday night. Both teams were fairly evenly matched throughout the first half, but the Gremlins went to town after that.

Jim Friedebach, "Big John" Steeplechase Jockey Dragged by Horse

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (P)—Steeplechase jockey Terry Biddlecombe, with one foot caught in a stirrup, was dragged 200 yards by a runaway horse past horrified fans here Saturday.

Biddlecombe finally got his foot clear, trotted back to the weighing room, vaulting over a railing on route, apparently without a scratch.

Middlecombe's horse, Hydra Dor, fell at the water jump right in front of the main stands during the Banbury Novices Steeplechase. Then he galloped on, with the jockey bumping along beside him.

Herring and Leonard Butler combined a scoring attack which was too much for the Vikings to cope with. Together they accounted for 59 of the Gremlins' points.

Larry Drunert, LaMonte's 6-foot-2 center, battled gamely to keep abreast of Gremlin scorers, dropping in a big 20 points. Roger Rumpf, tallest man on the Viking squad and a senior forward who scored 38 points against Stover recently, has held to 15 points by Gremlin defenders.

Both teams worked hard under the back-boards, and Sacred Heart out-rebounded some of the tallest men on the Viking squad. Gary Crnic, another outstanding Sacred Heart performer, snagged nine rebounds and Butler and Herring went up for 12 and seven respectively.

Kennie Breen, LaMonte playmaker, was shaken up when he was upended by "Big John" Herring when the two went after a loose ball, but he finished the game in fine style, collecting 13 points for the evening. Herring stands at 6-foot-4 and weighs about 200 pounds.

Though the tournament was a disappointment for the Viking varsity, which is undergoing a building process after ending up at the bottom of the conference last year, the LaMonte girls nevertheless took home the consolation trophy in volleyball when they whipped Smithton 39-18 Friday.

At half-time the girls from LaMonte led Smithton by 10 points, 18-8. Kathy Breshears was high for LaMonte with 10 points, while Glenda Stevenson served seven perfect ones for Smithton.

Capturing the third place trophy in volleyball, Hughesville skipped by Lincoln, 29-20, leading 19-2 at half-time. Williams served for nine points for Hughesville, and Lincoln's scoring was led by Schenewark, with five.

Friday's varsity score:
Sacred Heart 18 16 20 22—76
LaMonte 16 15 10 14—55

Individual scoring: Sacred Heart—Jim Friedebach, 25; John Herring, 10; Leonard Butler, 24; Bob Pfeiffer, 5; Gary Crnic, 6; Mike Gerke, 2; Jack Barr, 4; LaMonte—Larry Drunert, 20; Roger Rumpf, 15; Kenzie Breen, 13; Toby Blakely, 7.

Field Goal Gives Irish 17 to 15 Win

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (P)—A 15-yard roughing penalty called with no time remaining on the clock Saturday set up Joe Perkowski's 41-yard field goal that dramatically gave Notre Dame a 17-15 victory over Syracuse.

Notre Dame fans went wild, pouring onto the field to hoist the senior kicking specialist from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to their shoulders.

It was Perkowski's fifth field goal of the season for a school record and the second one he booted to win a game. He did it to beat Purdue 22-20 early in the season.

With the clock showing no time, Perkowski tried a field goal from the Orange 46 with George Sefcik holding the ball. Walter Sweeney, a 225-pound junior end, charged through and spun into Sefcik.

The Orangemen were penalized 15. It gave Perkowski another chance and the kick was perfect.

Up until then, Syracuse appeared to be on its way to a seventh triumph in nine starts.

With senior quarterback star Dave Sarette on the sidelines injured, sophomore Bob Lell filled an emergency role perfectly, tossing a fourth quarter touchdown that provided Syracuse with a 15-14 lead.

Syracuse's 10-ranked Orangemen had wiped out a 14-0 Irish lead that was stacked up in the third period.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

DARK clouds are in the sky for the Missouri University Tigers, come next Saturday. Nothing more than a miracle can save the Tigers from a second thumping from the Kansas Jayhawks, especially since the Missourians are to be the "guests" of the Kansans at Lawrence.

Apparently the Kansas State Wildcats were really working for their neighboring team the Jayhawks, as they roughed up the Tigers, more so than I believe the Tigers have been roughed up in any individual game this season. Four of the regulars were eliminated from play during the contest and it is likely they will not be in tip-top condition for next Saturday. Also a possibility that Norm Beal, flashy halfback, and Conrad Hitchler, end, may have played their last game for this season.

Ron Taylor, quarterback backing the team, finally was beaten down so that he was pulled out of the game because of injuries. Then Don Wainwright was injured and had to be helped off the field to the bench.

Evidently knowing their chances to win were practically nil, after their three-point field goal in the first quarter was passed in the second quarter by two touchdowns of the Tigers, the Wildcats decided to make the best of it. I would like very much to see the motion pictures of this game to satisfy my own curiosity about one of the Wildcats who looked to me as if he had a perfect right into the midsection of an oncoming Tiger coming around his left end. Others thought they saw it too, but the official on the field was closer. It either happened and the official was blind—or we were confused—one or the other.

He was a hefty end, and a good one at that on defense. The Jayhawks really owe him something, as he didn't miss an opportunity and made the going rough around his area.

This is not a pre-week alibi for the Tigers in their oncoming conflict, win or lose. The Tigers as a matter of fact have their work cut out. Especially when Kansas went romping along Saturday over California 53-7 and the best M.U. could do was get a 19-10 tie out of their meeting with California.

But anything can happen in football, and remember Kansas didn't do so good last year and set the Tigers back on their heels in that last game of 1960—it could happen to Kansas in 1961.

There are no predictions over the Smith-Cotton

4 S-C Lettermen Back

Begin Practice For Cage Season

Smith-Cotton High School Tigers are now turning their attention to basketball and practice is well underway under Coach Russell Robinson. Robinson has inherited four lettermen from the 1960-61 team, but has an array of new material coming up.

The overall squad has been cut down to 16 players and some changes in this squad is likely to come if other material on the "B" squad advance in their playing.

Coach Robinson is starting his first season as the Tiger mentor and he is determined to build a winning team. "I have some mighty good ball players out, and I am confident they'll improve as the practice sessions roll along."

Two transfer students from Smithton have bolstered the squad. They are Bill Murphy, a promising prospect, but who will not become eligible until the middle of January. The other is Terry Fletcher who stands 6-3 also is showing up on the court. An advantage also is the fact both are juniors.

Among the crop who have hung up their football togs to take on the short basketball trunks are: Dickie Van Dyne, 5-9; Jack Taylor, 5-8; Charles Patterson, 5-10; Art Wiggins, 6-2; Larry McCown, 5-11; and Danny Mueller, 6 foot. All seniors except McCown and Mueller, juniors.

Others who comprise the squad are Randy Short, 6 foot, junior; Billy Cook, 5-9, junior; Jerry Abela, 6 foot, junior; John Swearingen, 6 foot, junior; John Buchholz, 6-1, senior; Jim Johnson, 5-11, junior; Ralph Kreisel, 5-11, senior; and Butch Walker, 5-9, senior.

The returning lettermen are: Van Dyne, Taylor, Buchholz and Wiggins.

The Tigers will play their first game with the alumni on Dec. 2, followed by the annual Tipton Invitational Tournament the week of Dec. 4-9. The drawings for the Tipton tournament have not been announced.

First conference game comes on Dec. 16 with the Hannibal Pirates on the Smith-Cotton court.

McClinton Paces Jayhawks To a 53-7 Win Over Bears

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Bulldozing halfback Curtis McClinton smashed over four touchdowns Saturday, pacing the Kansas Jayhawks to a crushing 53-7 victory over California.

Handing the Bears their worst loss since 1955 and scoring the most points against them since 1930, the Kansas posted their sixth straight 1961 victory and kept alive their hopes of an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

The 212-pound McClinton, a senior from Wichita, plunged from the three, two, six and two as he accounted for 24 points, just five short of the KU school record.

A crowd of 30,000 in Memorial Stadium saw McClinton tally touchdowns the first two times the Jayhawks controlled the ball as the hard-charging visitors' line throttled Cal until late in the game.

The 53-point total was the most by a Kansas team since Jack Mitchell took over as head coach four years ago. It was the most scored against California since Southern California beat the Bears 74-0 thirty-one years ago, and the margin was the biggest since UCLA won 47-0 in 1955.

The first time the Bears had the ball, Jon Mason fumbled at his 17 and Phil Doughty recovered for Kansas. Four plays later, McClinton had his first touchdown.

On the next series, the Jayhawks marched 66 yards in 10 plays with McClinton again going off left tackle for the touchdown. Kansas netted two more touchdowns before the halftime intermission and led 28-0. Quarterback John Hadl pitched 15-yards to end Jay Roberts or one and his six-yard burst.

California's only touchdown came with the count 41-0 early in the fourth period. Rudy Carvajal raced 77 yards to the Kansas three and two plays later Bob Willis took a short pass from Randy Gold for the touchdown. Kansas 49-7. Carvajal 13 15 6 19-53 California 0 0 0 0 7-7. KU-McClinton 3 run (Barnes kick).

KU-McClinton 2 run (kick failed) KU-Roberts 15 pass from Hadl (Hadl run).

KU-McFarland 3 run (kick failed).

Cal-Willis 6 pass from Gold (Ferguson kick).

KU-Willson 26 run (kick failed) KU-Leiker 1 run (kick failed). Attendance 30,000 estimated.

Oklahoma Downs Army Cadets 14-8

NEW YORK (AP)—Halfback Mike McClellan sped 75 yards to a touchdown in the opening five minutes on a tricky quick-snap play that caught Army napping Saturday and Oklahoma went on to a 14-8 football victory over the Cadets at Yankee Stadium.

The Cadets were casually coming out of their defensive huddle when Jimmy Carpenter, Sooner halfback, took the ball from center and lateraled to McClellan, who took off around his left end.

Army players, surprised by the maneuver, stood by with their mouths open as the rangy speedster from Stamford, Tex., raced three-quarters the length of the field to a score. The play was specially designed by Oklahoma scouts to take advantage of Army's slowness in snapping into defensive formation.

Oklahoma added a second touchdown in the final minute of the third period on a 1-yard plunge by quarterback Bob Page, climaxing a 77-yard march.

Army scored with less than five minutes to play on a 56-yard drive, engineered by third string sophomore quarterback Art Lewis, son of former West Virginia coach Art Pappy Lewis.

The touchdown came on a 5-yard pass, Joe Blackgrove to end Paul Zmuida. Lewis then passed to Zmuida in the end zone for a 2-point conversion.

Amy's hopes for a last gasp victory were smashed when Oklahoma fullback Phil Lohmann intercepted a Lewis pass on the Army 48 and ran it to the Army 17. Oklahoma was on Army's 8 when the game ended.

Oklahoma 14 7 0 7 0-14 Army 8 0 0 0 8-8

Oklahoma-McClellan 75 run (Jaman kick).

K.C. Team Takes Lead With 2,895

There is a new leader in the team events of the 31st Annual Missouri State Woman's Bowling Association tournament being held in Sedalia at the Broadway Lanes and Hillcrest Lanes. The new leader came about during the early part of Saturday afternoon when the Dick Scharz Insurance team from North Kansas City emerged with a terrific score of 2,895.

The Tolt Hohlberg Flower Shop who figured a cinch on the top spot with their 2,795 pins toppled as the western Missourians ended their team events with a 100 pin margin.

Dick Scharz bowlers came through with a 2,685 scratch game and with their handicap of 210 pins ended up with a total of 2,895. Their score is 44 pins higher than the 1960 "A" Champions, the Kutis Funeral Home of St. Louis who won with a 2,851.

Lavern O'Connor a member of the Kansas City aggregation had a 616 series in the team events rolling games of 210-219 and 187 to lead her team to a victory this weekend.

Up to late Saturday night no changes were made in the singles, doubles or all-event standings, but anything can happen this weekend.

The team events are all being bowled on the lanes at Hillcrest while the doubles and singles games are being rolled at the Broadway Lanes.

Venezuelan Pilot Is Hurt as His Plane Crashes Near Clinton

CLINTON, Mo. (AP) — A Venezuelan pilot was injured slightly Friday when his light plane cracked up in a landing at the Ferro Ranchero Airport seven miles west of Clinton on Rt. 7.

The pilot, Nestor Jose Osorio, 25, Caracas, Venezuela, was treated at a Clinton hospital for head cuts. The plane was not badly damaged. It is owned by William C. Morales, Dallas, Tex. Osorio was en route to Miami, Fla. The highway patrol said it understood his flight originated at Minneapolis.

Airport

700, half to be paid by the city, the other half by the government. Clearing, excavation and drainage costs total $98,980, half by the city and half to be paid by the government. New pavement will cost $211,470, which would also be divided between the city and federal government. Pavement improvement for a secondary runway, north-south, will cost $35,650, a half and half cost to the city and to the government. The government will also divide the costs of new fencing, seeding, airport lighting and apron lighting which will cost $32,200.

A study of the present bonded indebtedness of the city was made by the law firm of Stinson, Mag, Thomson, McEvers and Fizzell, which has consulted with Sedalia in previous years on such proposals and their report indicates this bond issue would cost a maximum of six cents per $100 valuation to pay the interest and bonds. In subsequent years, the total amount required would be less each year because of the drop in interest each year as the bonds are paid off.

City officials believe the tax costs might be some less than six cents, depending upon the sale of the bonds, if approved.

The Board of Airport Commissioners disagree with some that the airport is strictly for commercial airlines. They contend it will benefit the city as a whole as an inducement to many industries to locate here due to the use of airport facilities for their own planes. Many industries today are owners of planes and their executives and salesmen do a great deal of flying.

In the spring of 1958, Sedalia applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for airline services to Sedalia. No sooner did Sedalia make this application until Ozarks Air Lines of St. Louis applied for the certificate to serve this area. Central Air Lines also showed an interest in the local application.

However, the CAB at its hearing granted the certificate to Ozark Air Lines as they already served Jefferson City and Columbia and Sedalia would be on their air route.

Sedalia had plans then to increase the runway, but a delay came about over other issues. Ozark officials came to Sedalia but found the type planes in use could not safely make landings and take offs from the local field.

The Board of Airport Commissioners were informed until the runways could meet the standards as set by the then Civil Aeronautics Agency, commercial air service could not be started.

Then various industries who gave Sedalia a "look" invariably have had four questions to ask about facilities in Sedalia, their educational facilities, airport facilities, recreation facilities and churches. The recent school bond issue took care of the first, recreational facilities are exceptional, and Sedalia's churches were always praised. But the airport facilities didn't come up to standards.

As the board pointed out at a recent meeting, they do not guarantee that industry will flourish overnight. Sedalia, however, will have a talking point to induce a favorable decision from many industries looking for new locations to give Sedalia much better consideration.

The Board of Airport Commissioners has taken exception to the remarks, this improvement will serve a select few. The airport as it now is of good to only those who fly small planes. They point out that if the desired improved facilities are made, the service of the field will be for all who desire air travel by commercial planes and will serve as a "feeder" to large lines flying to the east and those to the west.

The facilities will in effect save a dress of royal blue bulky knit with elastic at the waistline. With it she wore a white fur hat, and white gloves.

Linda Ream, 17, a Smith-Cotton student, wore the basic dress of red flannel she had made, with black hat and shoes and white accessories.

Leah Wortham, in the sub-deb class, had made a slim jumper for the contest of magenta novelty wool which was fully lined.

Narrator at the style show was Mrs. Louise McKee.

There were 34 girls of the 43 entries came to Sedalia and participated in the contest Saturday afternoon, with the largest number, 14, from Cass County.

In the senior division, which is girls from 18 through 21, four girls competed: Dana Alice Gordon, Route 1, Windsor, Benton County; Ruby Klein Mettler, Route 3, Sedalia; Carolyn Louise Oehrke, Route 1, Florence and Delta Joyce Reine, Route 4, Sedalia, all from Pettis County.

The junior division, girls 14 through 17, are: Glenda Joyce Davis, Harrisonville; Carolyn Elaine Hutchens, Harrisonville, both from Cass County; Susan Lee Longan, Route 3, Sedalia, Pettis; Carol Francil Cantrell, Harrisonville; Sandra Kay Sutton, Garden City, both Cass County; Alice Lee Vogel, Sedalia; Linda Ann Ream, Sedalia; Dorothy Joann Leiter, Route 2, Sedalia; Suzanne Frances Sims, Sedalia; Sherry Lynn Haas, Hughesville, and Kathryn Carier, Sedalia, all of Pettis County; Barbara Jean Boedeker, Centerville, Johnson County; Shara Darlene Swigart, Archie; Henrietta Marie Drury, Archie, all of Cass County; Louetta May Schnakenberg, Cole Camp, Benton County; Sheryl Ann York, Butler, Bates County; Marilyn Kay Schweer, Appleton a great deal of time to travelers who wish to travel to far distance points. It was pointed out that it now takes longer to get from Sedalia to Lambert Air Field in St. Louis by car than it does to get from St. Louis to New York by air.

The commissioners also pointed out that the Sedalia Airport is far from being inactive, but with improved facilities it would be a site of far greater activity. An example is the fact that over the past several months up to Nov. 1, there were 482 transit aircraft landed here. Last September, Sedalia, with its meager air strip proved valuable to the Civil Air Patrol which was on an intensive air search for a missing flier. At that time in September there were 30 privately owned aircraft of CAP members which flew in to the Sedalia field to participate in a search, and they represented outside of the transit figure over 150 sorties or flights.

At present there are based at the field 15 privately owned aircraft, owned by Sedalians, also an aircraft owned by the Sedalia Flying Club which also boast of a good membership and is still growing.

ABC of Fallout

The lower a blast occurs, the more material it scoops up from the earth and drops as local and tropospheric fallout. Higher and more powerful bombs send more particles into the stratosphere, where they linger, lose much potency.

Everyone takes for granted the almost unbelievable blast and heat unleashed by a nuclear bomb. What worries the world today are the uncertain — thus, more terrifying — effects of a nuclear bomb's by-products: radioactive particles, or fallout. Ordinary people have reason to be confused, for even scientists dispute over the dangers of fallout and on the value of shelters. Charts above illustrate how fallout is formed, what happens to it and list some of its characteristics. As for its effects on the human race, our tests undoubtedly has affected the

The Most Dangerous Fallout Particles

Most serious of fallout products, has half-life of about 27 years (that is, in 27 years it has lost half its radioactivity). Is easily absorbed into bones of children; can cause bone cancer or leukemia.

Similar half-life to strontium-90, it lodges in muscles and tissues of body; threatens genetic harm.

Collects in thyroid gland, but has short half-life of only eight days.

Long half-life; it could be particularly inimical to process of heredity, cause defective births.

Strontium-89, barium-140, zirconium-95 are among the many others. Most have short half-lives, but would be dangerous in nuclear war, to both the living and unborn.

In all, some 200 different radioactive isotopes (radioactive forms of ordinary elements) are created by a hydrogen bomb blast. Fortunately, most decay rapidly. Those which don't, however, pose a serious danger to mankind. Authorities are not agreed just where impermissible levels begin. Some argue any amount of radioactivity is potentially dangerous.

Three Stages of Superbomb

1. FISSION—Neutrons emitted by uranium-235 split other U-235 atoms (ordinary A-bomb). Reaction produces free neutrons and great heat.

2. FUSION—The heat fuses two types of hydrogen, creating the H-bomb explosion with blast, heat and more high-speed neutrons.

3. FISSION—Neutrons strike casing made of uranium-238, splitting it into radioactive units.

Effects of Fallout

LETHAL BURNS can be caused by shower of radioactive particles close to explosion area.

INTERNAL effects are caused by breathing in particles and ingesting them with affected food.

LONG-TERM effects of internal radiation may include damage to blood-producing and disease-resisting machinery of body, and altering of the reproductive cells.

"Dirtiness" of a hydrogen bomb is caused by its uranium trigger and outer casing (diagram, left). • Long-lasting fallout threat is contamination of food for men and animals

Auto Cemetery Not End of Car's Line

Parts Seekers Strip 'Em; Dealers Sell 'Em

By LARRY EMBRY

EVER WONDER what happened to that old car you traded in several years ago for a new model?

It may still be providing miles of service for its owner but if its age told on the tired metal or if it was involved in a wreck it may be lying in an auto salvage yard dying a slow, decaying death.

Cars aren't like humans. When wrecked or too old to run under their own power they wind up in the junkyard — not a cemetery and their rest is far from peaceful.

A trip to local salvage yards illustrates the ironic fate of a once proud machine whose throbbing engine powered its sleek chassis on many miles of business and pleasure trips for its owner. But all is not bleak for the dead automobile. Unlike humans, reincarnation is more than a theory in automobiles and in a few years part of their steel may be back on the highways in a new car.

When a scrapped or wrecked auto comes to a salvage yard a process of putting it back on the road in the form of rejuvenated metal begins. Depending on its condition, the car may rest at the junkyard for some time while part seekers practically strip it bare, or it may be apart immediately to begin its trip to the steel mill.

Local salvage dealers report that cars sold just as "junks" usually bring around $15, while later model autos that have been wrecked may bring up to $500. The salvage dealer regains his investment from those who may need parts from the "wreck" for vehicles of the same or a similar model. One dealer pointed out undamaged doors, fenders and bumpers are popular items along with interior accessories like cigarette lighters, radios and assorted control knobs.

"A car owner who has had a wreck would pay $50 for that door," a local dealer said, pointing to an unscathed door on a late model car.

Using parts to repair other wrecks is not the only time the salvage yard's stock of cars are searched through. Often times a minor part becomes lost and parts dealers are unable to supply them without making a special order. Such was the case of one Sedalia recently. A small, seemingly unimportant plug from the rear axle housing of his car was lost and grease was being thrown out the hole left by the missing plug. Local parts dealers had none of the plugs in stock and a special order would have been necessary, leaving the hapless motorist without transportation for several days. A check with a salvage yard produced the needed plug from a like model car and the motorist's difficulties were over.

Such problems are remedied many times each day by salvage yards on both a large and a small scale.

Junk cars on which the parts sales would be nominal go directly into the scrapping process.

First the motor, transmission and tires are removed and the gas-line tank detached. The gas tanks are removed as a safety precaution. Then the vehicle is set ablaze to remove the upholstery, which is useless. Motors and transmissions, especially in the later model autos, can sometimes be rebuilt or else they are sold as scrap iron.

No use has been found for the glass in the wrecked cars and it is simply smashed out and discarded, it was reported.

After the burning process the vehicle is ready to be hauled to the steel mill for scrapping. Local dealers ordinarily truck the junk cars to Kansas City where the scrap metal is processed and forwarded to a steel mill for remelting. Some shipping is also done by rail.

To facilitate transporting the wrecked cars, one Sedalia yard smashes the autos with a two-ton weight. The weight is raised by steel cable on a huge derrick and allowed to fall on the car. This is repeated several times, smashing the car into a neat, flat package.

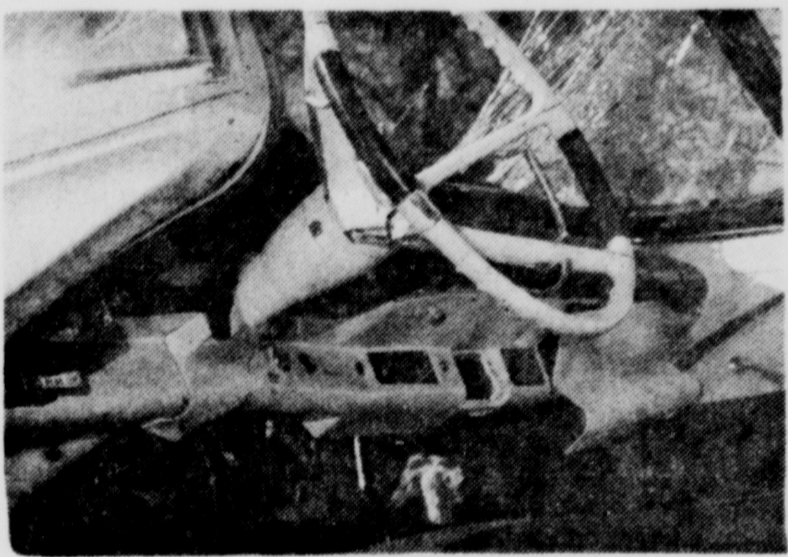

"By smashing the cars flat we can haul about 12 cars per truckload," a dealer pointed out.

Dismantling and processing the wrecked cars goes on almost continuously. For every load that goes out another lot of twisted wrecks comes in, thus keeping the

AUTO CEMETERY—These cars have lost their motors, transmissions, tires and all upholstery has been burned away. They gather rust while waiting for their turn to be smashed into compact piles and hauled to a scrap metal processor. Junk cars pile up fast and are continuously being hauled away, salvage dealers say.

STRIPPED—Once gleaming with newness, this wrecked car may have carried its owner to his death. The interior of the car has been stripped by parts seekers. Missing here are the radio, most internal control knobs, ash trays, etc. Salvage dealers report interior accessories are among the items which are most popular. If the steering wheel is good it is soon sold, but here the wheel was twisted and useless.

SMASHED FLAT—This twisted pile of metal was once about a dozen cars. Now they are ready for a trip to the steel mill. After the removal of the tires, motor and transmission, a local salvage yard smashes the cars flat with a heavy weight so that more can be hauled per truckload.

Medical Quackery Is Big Business

By TOM NOLAN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON (NEA) — "Doctors gave me up and then I found Elixir of Dope and I have not had a sick day since."

"I took three bottles and felt like a new woman."

The hook is baited, the line cast. And medical quacks, each an expert fisherman, reel in a catch of over a billion dollars a year from some 25 million Americans.

The present crop of quacks—estimated at about 100,000 by the recent First National Congress on Medical Quackery—has a long and rich heritage. Doctors aren't joking when they refer to quackery as "the world's second oldest profession."

For the record, charlatans are known to have cut bait as early as 3400 B.C., when a "hair-growing" potion was devised for the Egyptian Queen Ses. The record prescription was a stimulating mixture of dog toes, rotten dates and asses' hooves.

Quacks often are pictured as glib, smooth-talking sharpies. Not necessarily so, according to the American Medical Assn.

"Quacks don't have to talk smoothly to sell something to a person who believes himself desperately ill," says one AMA spokesman.

Quackery is an evolutionary process. Instead of getting everything from rheumatism cures to virility lures in just a bottle or two of snake oil, present-day victims are given their choice of a specific and different cure for each disease. For example:

An "Oxydonor" for the cure of arthritis. This gadget, a copper disc wired to an aluminum cylinder, was advertised as adding oxygen to the blood flow to relieve aching joints. It started to work instantly when the disc was strapped to the leg and the cylinder was dipped in cold water.

A "Panderulator" for short people. Resembling a medieval torture rack, this device was guaranteed to add five inches to a person's height by applying tension at chin and ankles. The common who dreamed this one up eventually was exposed as a five-foot-two midget.

A "Natural Eyesight System" to restore perfect vision. This kaleidoscope-like gadget, which massaged the eyelids, was stamped with the endorsement: "Use for eyelid exercise and throw away your glasses." At a Post Office hearing, the near-sighted promoter admitted he wore glasses.

A quack will go to any length to get sound endorsements for his product. One mail-order dentist was doing a landslide business in dental plates, primarily because of a testimonial which quoted a patient as writing: "Your plates are beautiful and fit fine."

The dentist was put out of business though, when a postal inspector forced him to produce the original letter. It had a comma after the word "fine," and con-

Family Role A Shift For Andy Duggan

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — It's enough to make an actor strip his gears. Andy Duggan's shifting from sex-probing Dr. Chapman to father of a wholesome brood in a family TV series.

Luckily, Duggan is strong, strapping (6-feet-5) and versatile. He looks able to make the transition with no pain, no strain.

Right now the actor is leading a survey of suburban sex habits in "The Chapman Report." As soon as he totes up the facts and figures, he races to resume "Room for One More," which has had one of the strangest histories of any TV series.

It is based on the 1952 movie that starred Cary Grant and Betsy Drake (their first film after marrying). A TV pilot was made three years ago with Richard Long in the Grant role. It never got off the ground.

"We did our pilot a year and a half ago," Duggan reported. "We never got a sale, but there were always reports that we were going on the air. So we'd do four or five of the shows, then quit. Then we'd do another batch and quit."

"Now we've got 20 of them in tinued, "but every time I eat, they fall out."

In addition to endorsements, quacks bank heavily on vague warnings about unspecified ills, according to AMA. Doorstep diagnosticians — styled as "the merchants of menace" by AMA—peddle cure-alls or "that tired feeling," "subclinical deficiencies" and "aging before your time."

Medical societies across the country are joining hands with federal agencies in what seems to be the only way to combat gadget and medicine shysters—public attention and education.

the can, and the show is finally going on the network."

It will start on ABC Jan. 27, occupying half of the Saturday night time vacated by "Roaring Twenties." The long lapse has been both a blessing and a possible blight, Duggan reported.

"We've been fortunate to have no interference," he said. "Nobody can complain about the rating because we don't have any."

"But it's also a problem because we've been working in the dark. There are no reviews, no public reaction to tell us whether we are on the right track or not. With a comedy show, that can be a problem. We have to keep looking back on the shows we have done to see whether things are going right."

Duggan, who lasted only a season on "Bourbon Street Beat," is naturally apprehensive. But "Room for One More" might have a good chance. It's about a couple who take in foster children besides their own two.

Teen-agers Strong On 'Sixth Sense'

By EUGENE GILBERT

Bob Meth, 17, of Pennsauken, N.J., tells this story: "About five years ago I dreamed that I would run into a Gulf Oil truck and be injured. It happened."

And Lora Schlesinger, 16, of Hollywood, Calif., gave us this tale:

"My brother moved in to an apartment which I'd never seen and I told my mother that I was afraid because I felt he was going to have a fire. A week later he did. Also, my brother was late in joining us for dinner one evening and the telephone rang and before my father answered it, stated that it was going to be my brother calling to tell us that his car was broken down. It was."

Both stories were given me recently by young people as evidence of the working of a sixth sense. We had asked 989 young people across the nation questions about the fascinating subject of extrasensory perception.

And we found that the majority of you young people believe in ESP. Over 56 per cent of the boys and 53 per cent of the girls expressed belief in the existence of a sixth sense.

The examples given by Lora Schlesinger and Bob Meth were by no means the only ones.

Typical Experience

More than a fourth of you reported some such incidents. Mostly they were on a lesser order. More typical was the experience described by Merle Lois Lifshitz, 17, of Brookline, Mass., who related:

"I was in a room where I had never been before and with new people, yet it seemed this had all happened before and I knew everything everyone was going to say."

With the majority of you expressing belief in extrasensory perception we anticipated a similar response to a related question: "Do you believe in life after death?"

But yes replies were given by only 45 per cent. No answers were made by 44 per cent, and 10 per cent said they simply did not know, or failed to answer the question.

Comments among those who said yes followed along the lines of statements by Madge Miller, 17, of New Ross, Ind., and Sheila Abrams, 16, of Philadelphia.

"I don't believe God's purpose was to make us live on earth without some good life after death," said Madge.

"I try to make myself believe that the ones dear to me have a better, restful life in heaven," said Sheila.

Henrietta Davis, 16, of Newton,

Mass., reflected the views of many of those who said no. She commented:

"Man is mass; when the cells are dead nothing is left except a memory."

Boys More Knowledgeable

Boys, by far, claimed greater familiarity with the subject of ESP. When we asked what was meant by ESP, and also asked for definitions, we got affirmative replies from 71 per cent of the boys, compared with 50 per cent of the girls.

"It's a sixth sense," explained David Williams, 18, of Delaware, Ohio. "Being aware of something, perceiving something but not knowing why."

Roger Simon, 18, of Haddonfield, N.J., defined ESP as "the ability of one person to perceive the thoughts of another without physical communication."

Compared to the sort of dramatic illustrations of ESP that are found in novels and on television, the experiences described by you young people seem fairly tame. So we asked what you thought about TV programs dealing with ESP, and whether you believed any of them.

It's clear that you are fairly skeptical because only 29 per cent of the group said yes, while 54 per cent flatly said they did not believe such programs.

Judy Johnson, 16, of Bellefonte, Pa., said she believed such programs, and gave this reason:

"Because nothing is absolutely impossible and while the exact thing in the program may not have really happened, I believe it, or something similar dealing with ESP, really could happen."

A demurring opinion was stated by Karen Goldberg, 16, of Newark, N.J., who said:

"I don't really think that it is possible and I think the TV programs are fakes—they are fun to watch but the public should not be fooled by them."

What Pentagon Has Deleted From Speeches Of Officers

By RAY CROMLEY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. The Senate Armed Services Committee starts investigating Pentagon censorship of officers, it will find the military reviewers have done some baffling things with their blue pencils.

There is the case, for example, of the officer who wrote a technical speech in May, 1961. One sentence originally read: "The X-15 is the 'Man of War' of the stable of research aircraft today." The Pentagon reviewer crossed out the phrase "Man of War" and wrote:

"Let's use another steed — Zev, Gallant Fox, etc., but not this one."

The 15 reviewers operating under Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester concern themselves primarily with security. Most of the changes made in the 1,500 articles and speeches reviewed over the last eight months were aimed at preventing secret material from being revealed unintentionally.

But chief reviewer Joseph S. Edgerton and his staff also concern themselves with policy. That presumably was the reason for objecting to Man of War.

These men have been told to make certain that military speakers and writers say nothing contradictory to Kennedy administration policy. When foreign affairs are concerned, a group of State Department reviewers under Roger Tubby sometimes do some of the final penciling.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says the reviewers have been influenced by the international situation at the time of each review. This may be one explanation for the seeming inconsistency of the censors. For example, one reviewer deleted the following sentence:

"The Communists, however, are not going to abandon their relentless drive toward world empire even though they dare not risk the inevitable retaliation that a nuclear war would bring to them."

He substituted the following:

"Potential aggressors, however, cannot be expected to surrender their objectives without a struggle."

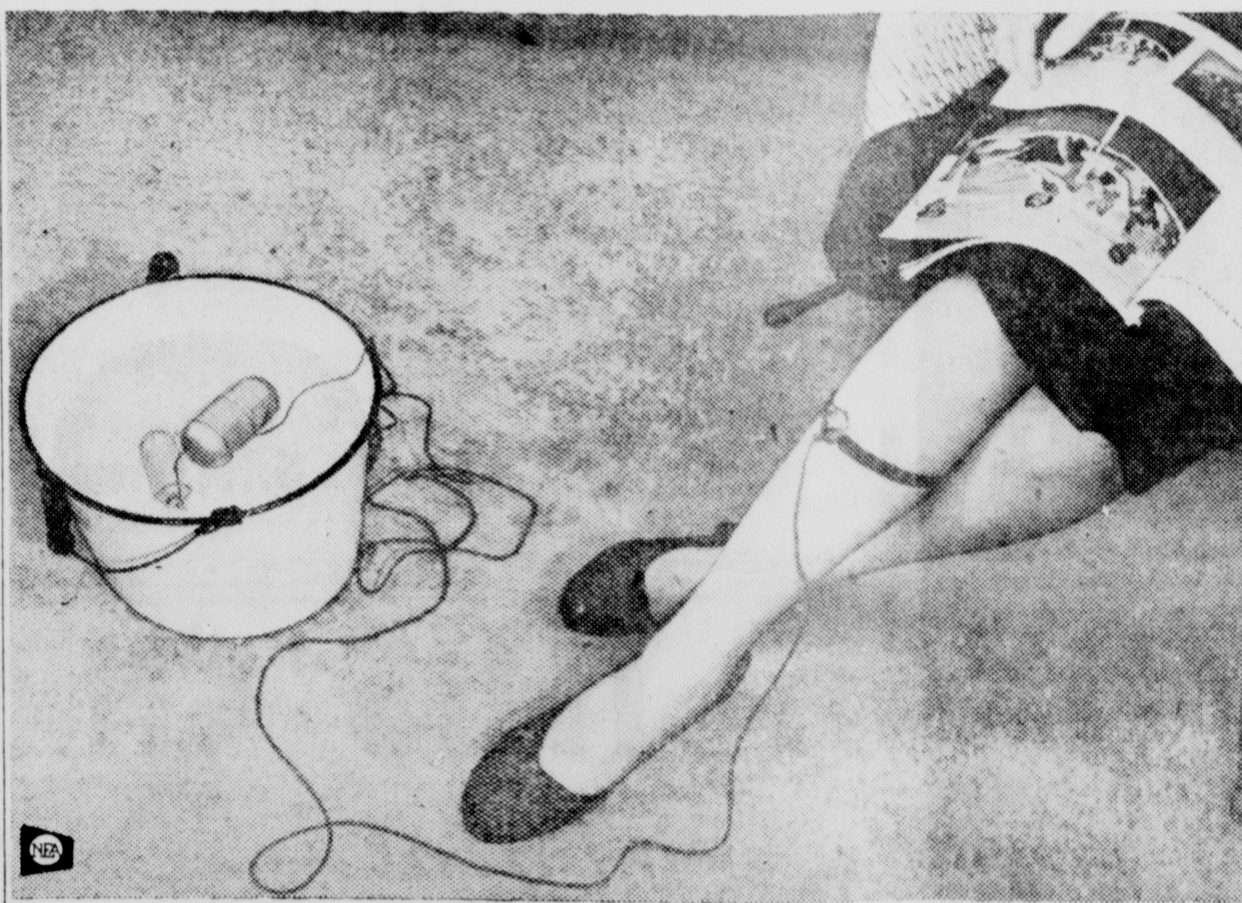

Yet in a speech by Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, no change was made in the sentence:

"The military assistance program is a reflection of the basic fact, the reflection of the global nature of the Communist threat on a worldwide basis."

Another phrase crossed out of have not relented in the slightest in their determination to dominate the world and to destroy our way of life."

But Lt. Gen. Arthur Trudeau referred in a speech — without apparent challenge by a reviewer — to "the challenge of godless communism, a most vicious challenge, a cancer which seeks to agonize and destroy life, liberty

Miss JoAnn Patrick Exchanges Vows With Mr. Thomas Manion

At seven o'clock in the evening Saturday, Nov. 11, Miss JoAnn Patrick and Mr. Thomas Robert Manion exchanged wedding vows at the Wesley Methodist Church in a candlelight ceremony. The Rev. Walter D. Niles performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with white and yellow mums and two nine branch candelabras with lighted white tapers and two large bouquets of white and yellow mums completing the chancel decorations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. Patrick, 1204 South Ohio, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Manion, St. Clair.

Miss Donna Nave played wedding selections on the organ. Miss Sue Turk sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by the organist.

Candlelighters were Mr. John R. Richards and Mr. Michael Johnson.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a princess silhouette gown of white brocade. Seed pearls outlined the bateau neckline and the wrist length sleeves. The Edwardian influence was reflected in the widely flared skirt which featured a pick-up bustle above a slight brush train. The bride's headdress was a double coronet of crystal and pearls which held her elbow length imported illusion. She carried an arrangement of white fugi mums.

Miss Judith Kay Gardner, who served as maid of honor, wore a dress of brocade in autumn gold, styled with cap sleeves, scoop neckline and a short bell skirt. Her headdress was a gold rose fashioned of brocade with matching circle veil and her flowers were bronze mums.

Serving as best man was Mr. Gayle M. Orr of Dixon, a brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Charles Wadleigh, Mr. John R. Richards, Mr. Michael Johnson, Sedalia, and Mr. Larry Dalton, St. Louis.

The bride's mother chose an aqua blue lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gold mums.

The mother of the groom wore a blue floral dress with matching accessories and a white mum corsage.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Opal Ellison, chose a plum wool dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pompon mums.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork tablecloth and centered with a bouquet of hite and gold mums, flanked with crystal hurricane lamps. Garlands of green encircled the three tiered wedding cake, which was topped with white bells and tiny gold mums, and was arranged through the remaining part of the table encircling the punch bowl.

Serving at the bride's table were Miss Janet Morris and Miss Judith Ann Gardner. Miss Linda Fisher, Springfield, had charge of the guest book. Miss Karen Schlosser, Raytown, and Miss Judy Corson had charge of the gifts.

Following the wedding, the couple left for a wedding trip through Texas and Louisiana. For traveling, the bride wore a brown and beige wool sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of white fugi mums.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and attended Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg.

The couple will make their home in Houston, Mo., where Mr. Manion is associated with the Indian Creek Appaloosa Ranch.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Manion, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Baley and Mr. and Mrs. Sewald and children, St. Clair; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Redhage, Union; Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Orr, Dixon; Mrs. Alberta Dalton and Larry, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McKee, Meta; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hunter, Lone Jack; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox, Lee's Summit; Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis and children, Mrs. Charles F. Davis, Quincy, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Don Fisher and Linda, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Tempel and son, Bill, Booneville; Mrs. Charlotte Mitchell, Warrensburg; and Miss Karen Schlosser, Raytown.

Caroline Gregory To Give Program At Sorosis Meet

Miss Carolyn Gregory, a graduate student at the University of Missouri working toward an M.A. in speech with major in interpretation, will present the program at Sorosis Monday at Heard Memorial Club House on "Selected Readings from Mark Twain."

As part of her Honors program, Miss Gregory, a native Missourian, made a study of the writing of and criticism about Mark Twain. She presents a program indicating the progression of Clemens from a spinner of yarns to a sometimes bitter philosopher.

Miss Gregory was born in La-Bell, Mo., in 1939. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society, in her senior year at the University where she received an A.B. with Honors.

Mrs. John Herring, art and drama chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Mrs. Denzel F. Raines

Miss Ruth Ann Rapp Becomes Bride of Mr. Denzel Raines

The Methodist Church of Stover was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ruth Ann Rapp, daughter of Mrs. Inez Rapp, Stover, and Mr. Denzel F. Raines, Stover, Friday, Nov. 3, at half past seven o'clock in the evening. The Rev. P. H. Wilbanks, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums. On either side of the altar was a beautiful fern, baskets of yellow mums and candelabra entwined with greenery and holding tall white candles. A large basket of white mums in the center completed the decoration. The center aisle of the church had white satin bows and yellow chrysanthemums marking the pews.

A prelude of appropriate nuptial music was played by Mrs. Dewey Hotelling and Miss Mary Esther Martin, cousin of the bride, sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. LeRoy Rapp, chose for her wedding a gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin fashioned in flowing princess style, with simple neckline and tapered sleeves. Her only ornament was a strand of white pearls, a gift of the groom. Her headpiece was a pearl crown which held her finger-tip veil of illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet consisting of a large yellow mum in a ring of white button mums and satin ribbon.

The maid of honor was Miss Darlene Spencer of Ames, Ia., and the bridesmaid was Miss Alice Prudhoe of Windsor, a cousin of the bride. They wore identical gowns of beige taffeta with bouffant overlace, waltz-length skirts with fitted bodices. They wore tiny lace hats with bronze bows and carried bouquets of large bronze mums with bronze satin ribbons.

Miss Lela Davidson, cousin of the groom and Mr. Larry Edwards were candlelighters. Miss Davidson's gown was identical with those of the maid of honor and the bridesmaid. Her candle was ornamented with little bronze mums and bronze satin ribbons.

Mr. Larry Raines, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Mr. Dwaine Campbell, a cousin of the groom, as groomsman.

Miss Carol Baker, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white satin ankle length gown with an overskirt of white lace. Her headpiece was a wisp of white net. Her white basket was filled with yellow mum petals. Master Ronald Dean Hodges as ringbearer. He carried gold rings on a white lace covered heart-shaped pillow. Little Miss Kimberley Nolting, cousin of the bride, was train-bearer. She wore a white taffeta dress with full lace overskirt.

Ushers were Mr. Eugene Cox, Mr. Jim Wilbanks, Mr. R. C. Miles and Mr. Larry Boatright.

Mrs. Larry Boatright had charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Inez Rapp, mother of the bride, chose to wear to her daughter's wedding a brown figured crepe dress with brown accessories and a large yellow mum corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. H. F. Raines, wore a black silk faille dress with white accessories, a black hat and a large white mum corsage.

The reception was held in the church parlor. There were ap-

No Nuclear Jitters But a Calm Concern

WORLD'S LARGEST bomb shelter is under construction in a Chicago quarry.

GUY JENNINGS, 77, of Watsonville, Calif., and his backyard shelter big enough for 32 relatives

NUCLEAR SCIENTIST Richard M. Stephenson, of Univ. of Connecticut, designed a $50 shelter.

By BOYD LEWIS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Memo to Nikita Khrushchev: If it's true as some say that you exploded those nuclear superbombs to terrify people, it isn't working over here.

A sampling of informed opinion from coast to coast shows virtually no signs of nuclear jitters.

Young folks are making plans for college and career.

Older folks are building toward secure retirement.

School enrollment and church attendance are healthy.

There are no signs of discouragement in the new baby department.

A number of distinguished newspaper editors were requested by Newspaper Enterprise Assn. to report on their communities. On the foregoing list most of them were pretty much in agreement.

However, there was a wide difference in reports as to the amount of home fallout shelter construction.

All of the respondents in this survey said there was a lot of talk about shelters. But what's actually being done in cellars and backyards around the nation seems to vary widely.

Shelters are being built at the rate of 40 to 50 a week in Rochester, N. Y., but there is little or no evidence of shelter construction in such disparate cities as San Francisco, New York, Cleveland and Texarkana.

"San Francisco has lots of twist but no jitters," says Editor Charles Schneider of the San Francisco News Call-Bulletin, a reference to the dance craze. San Francisco, of course, has long lived calmly under the threat of earthquakes. School children have far more than the usual number of emergency drills so they're "disciplined to take this sort of thing in stride," a school administrator reported.

Awareness of possible danger seems to reflect efforts of local authorities and newspapers to alert their communities. Rochester's lively shelter building could be a result of the erection of a model fallout shelter in the downtown area which has been inspected by 10,000 persons, according to A. Vernon Croop, managing editor of the Rochester Times-Union. More than 50,000 pieces of literature were distributed at the shelter.

Significantly, the building in Rochester was ascertained by a survey of building block suppliers. Building permit applications failed to substantiate the figures, indicating many persons were building shelters but did not want their neighbors or others to know about it.

This survey failed to find new shelter "horror stories" such as the report of a Chicago man who equipped his shelter with a machine gun and of Californians who threatened to shoot neighbors attempting to crowd into their shelter in the event of attack.

By brandishing his big bomb, Khrushchev has had an effect. Those who reported were agreed upon that but they described it in different terms.

J. Q. Mahaffey, editor of the Texarkana Gazette, finds his home folk mildly "apprehensive." In the words of one citizen: "It's just like there was an epidemic of sleeping sickness and two people had died. The people are apprehensive but none of them think they're going to be sick."

Editor Mahaffey quickly adds: "Shelters won't make much progress here until they become a status symbol, like swimming pools."

San Francisco's attitude is "calm concern rather than actual war fear," according to Editor Schneider.

"Concern" was Croop's word for Rochester. Editor Edward J. Meeman of the Memphis Press-Scimitar finds Memphians showing "some effect" but "beginning to reflect the depths within themselves of their cultural heritage."

Typical of this attitude reported from the mid-South is the statement of Hunter Lang Jr., attorney, member of the Memphians For Survival and intelligence officer of a Marine reserve unit: "Anybody who reads the papers can't help thinking about the atomic bomb dropping on our heads. The kind of people I associate with still plan for the future. We talk about fallout shelters at cocktail parties. People I know say 'If it comes it comes.' They don't want to spend a lot of money on shelters."

Dr. Harvey Reese Jr., Memphis psychiatrist, reported this comment from his next door neighbor: "My wife said we ought to build a shelter right on the property line between us — you know, where we could crawl in from either side. But I just don't think we could live with you folks for a week."

GOLDEN EGG—This "Cross of St. George" Easter egg was made in 1916 for Nicholas II, last of the Russian czars, by the famous goldsmith Faberge. Of pale green enamel, it bears a crisscross design of laurel leaves. Miniatures of St. George and the dragon grace center of cross. Sotheby's of London is selling it.

"The people of Cleveland do not fear war," says "Mr. Cleveland," Editor Louis B. Seltzer of the Cleveland Press. "They believe it could happen but they doubt it will. In the main they are going about their business of living, working and thinking in a levelheaded fashion."

Cleveland Civil Defense headquarters reports being swamped with queries about fallout shelters. "We have had two people doing nothing but answering questions and mailing out instruction books on fallout shelters since we offered them last week. However, only three building permits have been taken out for construction of fallout shelters."

"I don't know if people are scared," said a Cleveland civil defense official. "Maybe it's just Workers You Can Afford To Hire! more like anxiety." Phone TA 6-1000.

Dates Ahead

Saturday morning, Dec. 2 — Training meeting for 4-H officers of each club, Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Saturday morning, Dec. 2 — R-1 Hustlers 4-H Radio program, at 10:15 a.m.

Parents and 4-H Club Work (Findings from a study in Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Ohio)

More than three-fourths of the parents are willing to: (1) Attend special 4-H events, (2) Attend 4-H exhibits, (3) Attend regular club meetings, (4) Discuss with local leaders how they can help, (5) Have 4-H meetings in their homes, and (6) Provide transportation for members. But, only one-eighth to one-half of them actually DO!

From one-half to two-thirds of the parents are willing to: (1) Help leader plan program, (2) Get parents together to discuss 4-H, (3) Help leader teach project work and (4) Take part in 4-H meeting programs. But, hardly any of them actually DO!

About one-third of the parents are willing to: (1) Serve as 4-H leader and (2) Serve on 4-H Council. But, only 1 out of 100 actually DOES!

All or nearly all of the parents are willing to: (1) Help members select project, (2) Help members get material for project, (3) Help members with their project, (4) Help members with their project records, and (5) Encourage members to take part in 4-H activities. But, only one-half to two-thirds are already doing so!

Eighty-five per cent of the parents are willing to: (1) Read 4-H news articles, (2) Read all 4-H material sent them, and (3) Listen to 4-H programs on the radio. But, only one-half of them are already doing so!

New 4-H Flower Project Requirements

The plans are to develop a series of five 4-H Home Grounds projects. The first two in the series are ready with projects books entitled "Fun With Flowers" and "Flowers and You."

Fun with Flowers — (1) Show flowers at least six times — at home, for friends and at flower shows. (2) Know at least twelve flowers, shrubs or flowering trees. (3) Know at least six wild flowers. (4) Grow at least three kinds of flowers — from seeds or plants or cuttings or bulbs. (5) Carry out at least three activities — such as staging a club flower show — visiting gardens, greenhouses or flower shops — going on field trips to study wild flowers — making a flower notebook.

Flowers and You — (1) Share enjoyment of flowers at least twelve times — at home, for friends, and at flower shows. (2) Identify at least twenty flowers, shrubs, or flowering trees. (3) Identify at least ten wild flowers. (4) Plant and care for at least six kinds of flowers from seeds or plants, or cuttings or bulbs. (5) Carry out at least two group activities and four individual activities.

Organize Strong Project Groups

It is very desirable that members, those under 14 especially, be in project groups so that they may have leader teaching in practices, demonstrations, judging, preparation of exhibits, showmanship, and record keeping. After 14, perhaps it is more important that the member follow his interest than adjust to a group.

Strive for project groups of five or more, but try to get project leaders for groups of four or even three. Do not try to get project leaders for ones and twos. One way to meet the problem in a going club that has several ones and twos, is to group them and provide one project leader for all.

Again, if these ones and twos are six-year members or above and have had five years or project training, it is desirable that they be in project groups but not so necessary as with the younger members.

In general, it is to the member's advantage to carry through with

News of Interest To Mid-Missourians

TIPTON — The annual meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Association was held at the City Hall Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. to elect three directors for three years and take care of routine business.

Arthur Koechner and John Dueber were re-elected and Leo Miller was elected a new director.

After the annual meeting a board of directors meeting was held. John Dueber was elected president; George Huhmann, vice president; Arthur Koechner, treasurer, and Frank Lang, secretary. Other board members are Arthur Knipp, Robert Scott and Oscar Knipp.

Dinner was served following the meeting.

Mrs. Eaton also presented the study which was "A New Testament CW."

in this activity. Market grades receive much attention.

Recreation — To make life as well as a living, wholesome fun is needed to balance work activities. Recreation should be a part of every club meeting. Circular 525 is prepared to give the game leader and recreation committee information on planning and conducting a good recreation program.

Safety — The objective of this activity is to help 4-Hers develop the proper attitude and habits in the home, when working with machinery, while traveling the highways, or while a tplay, suggestions for working together in developing and carrying out a program for this activity are in Circular 86. Check sheets included in the circular can be used to help locate specific weaknesses.

Wildlife Conservation — This activity has to do with one of our natural resources — wildlife. The objective is to maintain a balance in nature. Much of the work centers around providing food, water, and cover for wildlife — bird, beast, fish, and plant.

Grooming — This activity has to do with appearance — what a well-groomed appearance is and how to acquire it.

First Aid — First Aid is what to do until the doctor arrives.

Health — This activity's importance is emphasized by the fact that the fourth leaf in the clover stands for health. Clubs are encouraged to include some phase of health in their programs each year. Since the subject of health is so vast, it is recommended that a club limit their yearly programs to one phase such as posture, nutrition, dental health, etc.

Marketing — This activity has to do with the movement of farm commodities from the farm to the consumer. Tours to markets, processing plants, cooperatives, and the like play an important role

OLD, NEW HAIRDOS — What a difference a hairdo makes is obvious in these two views of Mrs. Indira Gandhi, daughter of Prime Minister Nehru. She wore her long hair pulled back into a severe knot, top, during a 1956 Washington visit. In her recent visit she switched to a bouffant hair style, bottom, not unlike Mrs. Kennedy's.

Background Music on TV Drawing Ire

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The two most frequent complaints about television, if letters from viewers to this columnist are an indication, are about stepped-up sound often when the commercials take over the screen and sharp annoyance with much background music.

"Background music is fine," runs a typical complaint on the latter subject, "but there is too much of it and it is too loud. I don't need a lot of screeching and grinding to tell me the person I'm watching on the screen is in danger and frightened. Sometimes a quiet footfall—or no sound at all—can be twice as eerie because that's the way it would be in real life. The same for fight scenes."

The real trouble with annoying background music, obviously, is that it is handled incompetently. Just as in motion picture scoring, the test is whether the viewer is conscious of the music. If it diverts him from the plot, it is not serving its purpose. If the hero, in danger, is inching his way through the shrubbery to the climax, and the audience is thinking about the sharp bongo beat of a percussion instrument, the drama is ruined. If the melody played by the romantic stringed instruments is a catchy tune, it captures attention at the expense of the dialogue and action.

Jacques Belasco, the composer who wrote the background music for Friday's "Vincent Van Gogh,"

A Self Portrait," on NBC (as well as for NBC's religious classic, "The Day of the Cross") estimates that, conservatively, about half of the musical scoring of TV shows is poorly handled—particularly in shows using jazz backgrounds.

"The use of jazz has resulted in distorting the use of several instruments in a quest for new sounds," Belasco said. "I think part of the trouble is that so many TV producers are young men who have done most of their listening to music in nightclubs. They believe, therefore, that jazz music is good and noisy jazz is better."

Belasco also says that music is poured into TV shows with a heavy hand "when the story is poor and they think that they can cover it up by having four bongos and a lot of gliss."

Actually, music should be used carefully and unobtrusively to establish moods quickly, bridge subtle over gaps in the narration, to rest the viewers and to heighten the combined effect of image and words, Belasco said.

The Breach IS Closed

This week we'll be hearing and reading a great deal about closing the breach of misunderstanding between rural and urban segments of the American economy. There will be colorful dramatizations on the air and in the press, special programs of farmers and city folks getting together to increase the knowledge and appreciation of each for the other.

All of this will be part of the seventh annual observance of Farm-City Week November 17-23 which started off in Sedalia very appropriately at Sedalia Kiwanis club, a unit of the International organization which is the coordinating agency and prime mover of this activity. Working with Kiwanis is a National Farm-City committee which reads like a Who's Who of American business, industry, agriculture, the professions, trade, church, youth and service groups, educational institutions, government agencies, publishers and broadcasters.

The speaker at Kiwanis was Clarence Klingner, Extension Economist of the University of Missouri. He gave a lucid, down-to-earth analysis of the increasing importance of interdependence of farm people and non-farm people.

Improved relationship between the two groups is necessarily vital if we intend to maintain our private competitive enterprise system. Although Farm-City Week in November is dedicated to bringing about understanding of mutual obligations, we believe that this objective requires more than a once-a-year shot at it.

Our observation of it the past 25 years is that Sedalia and other small towns in Central Missouri have made exceptional progress in improving farm-city relationships. This is at the grass roots area where effectiveness is most successful and apparent.

There may be a few dormant deep-seated antagonisms still existing but these are the exceptions rather than the rule. Mutual interest in each other's welfare is mandatory and must be maintained for peaceful and profitable existence in these times of revolutionary adjustments to economic changes.

Because of the progress Sedalians and Central Missourians have made to alleviate friction between farm and city people we endorse an extension of this project to other groups.

Because of these noticeable improved relationships, we consider it next to abhorrent to continue use of the terms "narrowing the gap," or "closing the breach" between farm-city groups. The connotation leads the uninformed to suspect almost that there is an actual "chasm" existing.

If it ever was that deep, certainly we may conclude that today it is quite well filled in and bridged in most areas of farm-city human relationships.

Let's keep it that way and blade any small depressions which may have been overlooked.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

'Think Factories' for Armed Services

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department, which is supposed to train men to make important military decisions for the defense of the USA, has been delegating this responsibility to "think factories."

Millions of dollars have been allocated to "think factories" to reach decisions which supposedly the graduates of Annapolis, West Point, and the Air Force Academy should be able to make for themselves. They receive costly educations at the taxpayers' expense, following which the taxpayers have to pay for "think factories."

Congressman Edward Hebert of Louisiana has just finished a significant study of these "think factories," which shows that the brass hats, instead of delegating their thinking should learn to think for themselves.

In one case a "think factory" in New Haven, the Cowles Commission for Research in Economics, received $296,000 from the Office of Naval Research for: "Research in the general area of decision-making under uncertainty. Attention is to be primarily directed at decision situations characterized by the desire to optimize the value of some measure of accomplishment."

"Obviously," commented Congressman Hebert, "this is about how to make a decision when there is no decision to be made."

Replied Dr. F. B. Rigby, Navy director of mathematical sciences:

"The Navy does not provide a working environment comparable to that of an academic institution, which is the place they like to work."

"The Navy does not have any thinkers?" asked Congressman Porter Hardy (D., Va.). "The Navy has lots of thinkers, but not this kind," replied Rigby.

"Well," put in Congressman A. Paul Kitchin (D., N.C.), "does the Navy have in-house thinkers who will understand this report when it comes along?"

Other "Think Factories"

Another "think factory," Cresap, McCormick, and Paget of New York, was given a contract to revamp employment relations in 11 Navy shipyards. When this didn't work, the same firm was paid $136,000 to revamp its own recommendation.

Commented Congressman Hardy: "It took you ten years to find out this didn't work."

"That is correct, sir," replied Adm. Robert Moore of the Bureau of Ships.

What they recommended turned out to be a mistake," observed Congressman Kitchin. "So now you are contracting, at least partially, to correct their own mistakes."

Another "think factory," Systems Research, for "making available to naval analysis group an organization capable of providing quick response, general analysis services in the investigation of military and scientific problems."

Vitro Laboratories of Vitro Corporation of America, West Orange, N.J., was paid $522,000 for "the establishment of strategic and tactical modes of the fleet ballistic missile equipment which will maximize its effectiveness as a weapons system."

Arthur D. Little in Cambridge, Mass., was paid $181,279 to perform "a study to determine a basis for decision as to the proper level of support of fundamental research by the Department of the Navy" and the "extension of a preliminary mathematical model of relationships between segments of the research process."

Another "think factory," United Research, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., was paid $248,339 for "research on new decisions and rules, integrate new decisions on the use of air transportation for material, and decisions on inventory levels."

Senator Harrison Williams of New Jersey, liberal Democrat, was picked by friends of the giant Du Pont empire to introduce the General Motors-Du Pont tax forgiveness bill at the last session of the Senate. This bitterly fought legislation would help Du Pont stockholders who are forced to sell their General Motors shares as a result of a Supreme Court decision.

He was ordered off Du Pont property.

It will be interesting to see whether Williams reintroduces his tax bill to rescue the Du Ponts next January.

Kennedy's English

President Kennedy speaks excellent English, with a slight Harvard accent, but not quite as good as appears in the transcripts of his press conferences.

Harold Alderson, veteran shorthand reporter who transcribes the press conferences, has been quietly correcting the President's grammar. This came to the attention of press secretary Pierre Salinger who asked Alderson about it.

Alderson pointed out that no changes are made in the President's meaning and that Salinger should take no official notice of the grammatical changes. Then if anyone complains about the improvements in grammar, Alderson said he would take the rap.

No Shelter for Gyps

The Federal Trade Commission is moving on the booming fallout shelter business. Chairman Paul Rand Dixon has announced a crackdown on false advertising and worthless shelters marketed by fast-buck operators.

Rand mimes no words in categorizing such activities as being close to treason in the ideological war with Russia.

Nineteen-sixty-one may be remembered as the year of the fallout shelter mania, for never have so many talked so much about something which apparently we really know little about.

A detailed, clear-cut and nationwide civil defense program under the leadership of the federal government is still awaited by the people. Whether or not it will ever be forthcoming may depend upon whether the scientists can someday agree on just what civil defense measures, if any, are feasible under the shadow of nuclear war.

At present, confusion reigns. But one thing definite can be done, and that is to root the exploiters of human fear out of the picture.

Harvest Time

The First Bewilderment

Upon the porch she sat, day after day,

As back and forth the swing would gently sway,

Her little girl held close against her breast,

Her little girl, who wasn't like the rest.

Something was wrong, she knew beyond a doubt,

For other children her age looked about

Their little heads erect — they stood alone —

"O, what God — is it wrong with my own?"

While other children learned so quick to walk

Were learning words, were learning how to talk,

There in her arms so limp her baby lay,

She could not walk and no words could she say,

There had been romance marriage and a life so bright

And then the baby's coming — but the light

Had gone completely out for now they groped

There in their ignorance — still they prayed and hoped,

The swing went slowly to and fro —

"What ails my baby, God, please, I must know?"

She watched the neighbor children at their play

And she would hold her baby close and pray,

She asked her doctor but he shook his head

There wasn't much that could be done, he said,

And through her heart ran a million fears,

And down her cheeks there rolled a million tears,

They moved to cities hoping they could find

The answer both young parents had in mind,

And no one knows the misery they went through,

That great sorrow that they shared, those two,

Their little girl who could not even stand,

Their little girl who could not lift her hand,

"I never thought — I never thought" — said she

"That such a thing could ever come to me

"I never knew" she wept, "I never knew

"O, God, it can't be — God it can't be true" —

But lo, it matters not how rich or poor

Adversity may stop at any door,

And where or when or how may come the blow,

These are the things, O, God, we never know.

We, the Women

For New Outfits, Gals, Why Not 'Wolf-Whistle Red'?

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A lieutenant colonel who is something of an expert on color and its effect on human beings recently gave a strictly feminine audience a few hot tips on what red could do for them that blue couldn't.

According to the officer, when a group of bachelors were tested to find out how susceptible they were to the charms of a pretty girl wearing first one color and then another — the color of the girl's dress made a whale of a difference.

The bachelors' breathing and blood pressure remained the same when they looked through a two-way mirror at a pretty girl dressed in white. Ditto when they gazed at a pretty girl dressed in yellow. Worse than ditto when they beheld a sweet little Alice blue gown.

But when the girl appeared in red — the graphs went crazy as the bachelors' blood pressure soared.

Maybe we women ought to pay more attention to the colonel's blood pressure charts — and not so much to the fashion magazines and the saleswomen who tell us what colors are "good" this season.

If red makes men's pulses quicken, then red ought to be good every season and why should we be spending money on clothes of "deliciously dirty green" (as one decorator calls one of the newer shades) or beige or gray or yellow.

Maybe wives shouldn't even listen to what colors their husbands say they like them to wear.

For as the colonel pointed out to the ladies, "Your husband may like you to wear blue but that won't stop him from whistling at a girl in red." Maybe husband's like for their wives to wear blue just so nobody will whistle at them!

Strain On Sportsmanship

Grotesque, Unfair Charge Leveled at Republicans

By ROBERT E. HENNESSEE

DP&R Special Service

WASHINGTON—John M. Bailey

the Democratic National Chairman, can use a lesson in political sportsmanship.

This indefatigable party leader,

a man rarely to be found on the defensive, has leveled a charge at the GOP which is as grotesque and unfair as those the Republicans hit the Democrats with during the McCarthy era.

Without equivocation, Mr. Bailey says the Republican Party "will not hesitate to jeopardize American security in a desperate and reckless effort to win votes . . ."

The Democratic chief was reacting to a charge about reserve

call-ups made by GOP Congressman William Ayres (Ohio) and National Committee. Ayres said:

"Thousands of men who served two or more years are being recalled to active duty, forced to leave a family and a mortgaged house, while many single men remain free . . ."

The Republican was not attacking mobilization; but rather the way it was being carried out.

Married men have more votes than single men. The GOP thus was making a rather intelligent political pitch, regardless of any merit, or lack of it, which the charge might have had.

The Democratic chairman reacted with fire, asserting that he was sure "the men in the Kremlin applauded" the Republican attack "on our mobilization program," and added:

"Congressman Ayres is doing his best to create the division and confusion which the Communists are playing the Communists'

Traffic Pace System Saves Driving Time

DETROIT (AP)—A new traffic control system being tried near Detroit has convinced most people who use it they make better time with fewer stops and more safety than they did before the system was installed.

Officially known as the Traffic Pacer System, the device began operating experimentally Aug. 1 on a four-mile stretch of Mound Road, a heavily traveled artery in nearby Macomb County.

Some 15,000 cars use the road daily between 6:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. and 23,000 cover the stretch from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Basically the system consists of a number of overhead signs which tell you how fast to drive and a more than normal amount of the standard red-amber-green traffic signals which prevent intersections from becoming clogged.

If you follow instructions you should be able to clear the four miles without a stop even during heavy traffic. Under the old hit and miss system of lights the average driver could expect to be stopped by signals three or more times in the four miles during the afternoon rush hour.

Approaching the start you see an overhead sign, about two feet by four feet, with lighted numbers, much like a football scoreboard. You are supposed to pass under the sign at the speed indicated, anything from 15 to 45 miles per hour, and maintain that speed until you reach the next sign. This will tell you your new speed.

If you have gone too fast, or too slow, you probably will be stopped by the next traffic signal. If you maintain the speed indicated, you'll sail right through.

Each of the nine intersections in the four-mile system has a series of presignals, located about 200 yards before you get to the cross road.

If you clear these lights on green, you can confidently expect to clear the main intersection. If you get stopped, the odds are it will be at one of the presignals, leaving the intersection clear for cross traffic.

The system was devised at the General Motors Technical Center, which is bounded on one side by Mound Road, and installed under an agreement with the Macomb County Road Commission. It is modeled on theories used by Dr. Wolfgang von Stein of Dusseldorf, Germany.

hope for during this time of crisis, game for them.

"Congressman Ayres is trying to do for the Communists what their own infiltrators have been unable to do, to undermine the confidence and unity of our people in a time of peril."

Mr. Bailey's reasoning, if carried far enough, could smother the loyal opposition, since any charge of criticism of the administration could be interpreted as "divisive" and therefore "playing the Communists' game for them."

During the McCarthy era, Democrats reacted with valid indignation when, it seemed, almost everything they did and said was interpreted by the Republicans with a Soviet measuring rod, which says if the Reds are for it, we're against it.

It would appear that, in some old muddy ditch, Mr. Bailey has found this rusty, discarded measuring rod.

Thanksgiving Perspective

By RALPH W. LOWE, D.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I'm impressed by the list of credits trailing after most telecasts. Sometimes, I'm more impressed by this extravagant list of names than by the production itself. This is the recognition that even the simplest production requires many minds.

In this spirit an ancient worthy reminded his readers, "Since we are surrounded by these witnesses, let us run the race we have to run with patience."

This is the meaning of Thanksgiving Day. It's the listing of the credits, the perspective of gratitude that is the basis for all vocation.

There is an old Zen quotation which asked, "We know the sound of two hands clapping, but what is the sound of one hand clapping?"

If that seems to be a difficult question, it is paralleled by attempts of men and nations to go it alone. This is not a time for unilateral action.

The fact that some men and nations flaunt world opinion or pretend to applaud with one hand only underscores their own distorted thinking.

Underneath the spiritual bankruptcy and veneers of complacency is the fact that we have been trying to applaud ourselves. E. Stanley Jones once suggested that there are three stages in the development of a mature individual:

● As little children we are dependent upon others.

● As young people we become independent.

● But maturity is only real when we become interdependent. It is recognized in marriage, understood by the cultured mind, appreciated in international experience, experienced by the reverent.

In Thornton Wilder's play "Our Town," there is the delightful statement of a lad who begins his identification by the street address and ends with "this planet, this universe."

Start listing the credits today. You start with your personal address and, before long, you are at that reverent place where you say with honesty:

"Now thank we all our God with hearts and hands and voices,

Who wondrous things hath done, in whom this world rejoices; Who, from our mother's arms, hath blessed us on our way With countless gifts of love, And still is ours today."

Your Pocketbook

It's Easy to Determine Whether to Rent or Buy

By FAYE HENLE

Has any salesman suggested you rent it instead of buying it? Latest figures show that 3 out of every 10 families now are renters of a wide variety of products and that consumer renting is now a $100 million-a-year business.

When should you rent? When should you buy?

You alone can answer these questions, because they pertain to your own pattern of spending. Here are some guides:

Figure how much it costs to own a product. Include the initial purchase price and financing charges if you are not paying cash. Next, figure the cost of maintenance. Finally, survey the use you make of the particular product.

For example, if you need a car for year-round transportation, figure carefully how much that car costs you on a monthly basis—repairs, insurance and gasoline. Query car rental services in your area about the monthly cost of rental, specifying the number of miles you travel and the cost of gas.

Yours will not be a true survey unless your comparison is based on identical car models. You probably will discover that owning in such a case is preferable to renting. If, however, you live in a congested metropolitan area where you only have occasional use for a car, there is little doubt that you'll come out ahead by renting.

Consider a lawn mower. I've been told the average life of a power mower today is 70 hours. Sounds extraordinary, but figure. How long does it take to cut the lawn? How often in a 12-month period do you cut grass? You probably will discover a new power mower will last three years. No figure the rental on the same basis of hours. Compare the costs.

After you have made both these computations, ask yourself a further question. If you had not invested the dollars in that particular purchase, what might you have done with those same dollars? Every purchase you make should be considered as an investment. Every investment you make should be made with an eye to make both your dollars grow and the enjoyment of those dollars increase.

Why would anyone rent? Why the trend? Unless it's a building or manufacturing equipment, don't look for a tax advantage. But, there is a subtle trend in our thinking. Yesterday we worshiped possession. Today we worship competence. When you rent you usually get the newest model. If there is any failure of performance, you merely return the product and get a new one in exchange. No repair bills, no annoyances.

Big Wardrobe Fills Closet Of Anita Loo

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walking into Anita Loo's bedroom is like walking into ladies-ready-to-wear at a Fifth Avenue emporium.

Anita is a young Chinese actress who, by actual count, has 170 dresses, 250 pairs of shoes, 100 sweaters, two mink coats and four mink stoles.

Her collection is so vast that a photographer was unable to get it all in one shot.

Most of the dresses are slit, offering more than meets the thigh, in silk-brocaded styles of the Orient. But the sweaters are pure American.

"Chinese dresses and American sportswear are the world's most comfortable clothes for women," says pretty Anita.

How does such a young actress acquire a bigger wardrobe than Elizabeth Taylor?

"Very simple," answers Anita. "I work in such television programs as 'Hawaiian Eye,' 'Hong Kong,' 'Laramie,' and I recently made my American movie debut in 'Experiment in Terror' opposite Glenn Ford."

Then she added: "Does that answer your question?" It didn't.

"Well, then, I must confess. My father is a banker in Hong Kong and I get most of my clothes there."

Anita lives with a younger sister who is a coed at the University of Southern California. Anita, who had acted in many Chinese films, first came to the United States to study drama at the University of California.

"I was a Chinese method actress but, boy, it's a different method from what they teach in America. I became one confused Chinese girl."

It was her good looks, not method acting, that landed her in Hollywood. A scout for one of the many Oriental-flavored TV shows saw her. She has been working steadily since.

She estimates that her dresses, complete with hand-sewn head work, would cost a fortune if made here. Her dressmakers in Hong Kong charge her about $40 a dress.

and the pursuit of happiness." Other phrases struck out have included "insidious ideology of world communism," Soviet infiltration extending through the far corners of the globe, and "the steady advance of communism."

Yet in one speech by Adm. Arleigh Burke — who often had a rough time with the reviewers before his retirement — the reviewer left in the phrase "the insidious cancer of communism inched down the peninsula of Southeast Asia."

Sometimes several reviewers have read one speech. Sometimes they have disagreed on what should be said. When this has happened, in some cases at least, the reviewers have solved their differences by eliminating everything they disagreed about.

On occasion this practice has made speeches difficult to understand.

Here are further examples of how the reviewers have wielded their blue pencils.

A sentence reading "Someone pounded his shoe on the table in a recent U.N. meeting" was deleted with no reason given.

"The enemy" has been changed to "potential aggressor."

The phrase "both the Communists and ourselves recognize" was changed to "it is generally recognized."

The phrase "Sino-Soviet bloc" has been eliminated in some speeches while in others "Communist-bloc" has been eliminated and "Sino-Soviet bloc" substituted.

The driving and ruthless lust of a young pool shark to become the nation's all-time champion is the crux of Robert Rossen's fast-paced production "The Hustler," opening today at the Fox Theatre. The CinemaScope film stars Paul Newman, Jackie Gleason, Piper Laurie, George C. Scott and Myron McCormick.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We have four school-age children. The trend these days seems to be to load kids up with homework until they can't see straight.

In our house the usual procedure is this: After the supper dishes are done my wife helps the girls with their homework and I supervise the boys. These kids aren't stupid, but they can't seem to get by without our constant guidance. We've tried cutting down on the help and the results have been disastrous.

By bedtime my wife is so full of historical facts and I'm so dizzy from algebraic equations that any thought of romance is out of the question. So, the question boils down to this: Do we deny ourselves or our children? You decide.—MIDNIGHT OIL

Dear Oil: If cupid is being knocked out every night by homework your kids are getting entirely too much help.

One hour of supervision, five evenings a week, should be plenty. Beyond that you do your children an injustice—not to mention yourselves.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I the typical jilted girl or is my case different?

In April my steady and I broke up. He said I was too possessive. He wasn't particularly interested in dating others but he wanted to spend more time with the fellows. He still shares my locker at school (we're both seniors now) and he even dates me once in a while.

Well, here it is November and I'm still crazy about him. He's given up all ambition for college and every weekend he gets drunk with the fellows.

Maybe if I show him I have confidence in him he will straighten around. Or do you think I am carrying the torch in vain?—EVY

Dear Evy: The only girl who looks good carrying a torch is the Statue of Liberty.

A boy whose idea of a big time is to get drunk every weekend is bad news—so consider yourself lucky. A bargain he wasn't.

Dear Ann Landers: My niece is planning a winter wedding, and she doesn't know beans about wedding etiquette. She thinks everyone who is invited to the wedding should also be invited to the reception and dinner.

Are the men suppose to wear dark pants and white coats in the winter? I say no. The groom says yes. If the women wear long dresses do they also wear hats? The bride-to-be says the groom's folks are supposed to buy flowers

Rod Sterling Is Eager For Writing Rest

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK — Rod Sterling, who spent two years writing "The Rock," and a year on "Requiem for a Heavyweight," has turned out 81 half-hour scripts for "The Twilight Zone" in the past 24 months. Quite logically, he is looking forward to a rest.

"I just couldn't go on happily after this second year," Sterling admitted. "Sometimes I think we've tried everything, and there's the danger now that I'll be imitative of myself."

Sterling's production-line writing performance is a real television tour de force because the quality of his weekly CBS series has consistently remained high and imaginative.

"It has taught me a great deal," he continued. "Before the show I would tackle writing jobs in a leisurely way. Now if I spend more than five days working out a 'Twilight' show, it goes out the window."

Sterling's scripts for "Twilight Zone" are complete through March shooting schedules of his filmed shows. He flew in from Hollywood for a few days to supervise some work on the scenario of his "Requiem for a Heavyweight," currently being expanded into a motion picture.

Next year he'll take it easier. "I've accepted a writing residence at Antioch College for a year," Sterling said with obvious anticipation. "I'll be teaching three classes a week, and can spend the rest of my time getting reacquainted with my wife and children and doing some writing."

Sterling, now 36, was graduated from the Ohio college after three years in the Pacific as a World War II paratrooper. He had started selling scripts to radio during his sophomore year. After graduation he plunged into dramatic writing for television, and had shows on all the important dramatic programs of the early 1950s.

The turning point was his "Patterns" in 1955 which won him his first Emmy and other awards. He was an important contributor to "Playhouse 90," where "Requiem

National Guard Unit Inspected At the Armory

Members of Headquarters Battery, Second Howitzer Battalion, 128th Artillery, a local National Guard unit, stood for the unit's annual armory inspection Wednesday night.

This inspection is one of two annual highlights in the Guard's activities. The other is the two-week period of summer field training.

Lt. Col. Ruhl J. Russell, Fifth Army Inspector General from headquarters in Chicago, Ill., conducted the inspection. Also present were Col. Herold H. Smith, senior Army advisor from Jefferson City, and Lt. Col. Laurence A. Smith, division training advisor from Joplin.

The inspection included a check of troops in formation for general appearance, knowledge and discipline; the maintenance of supply and personnel records and administrative procedures; maintenance of unit equipment; dismounted drill of personnel; inspection of unit training and procedures; and a question and answer period for the purpose of determining general knowledge among members of the unit.

Col. Russell stated he was particularly impressed with the appearance and discipline of the men and the type of training they are receiving.

There are openings available for certain qualified personnel, it was announced, including prior service men and men under 20 years of age. Additional information is available at the armory.

Swedes Are Well Prepared For Threats of Atomic War

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The peace-loving people of Sweden, who have taken up arms against no one since Napoleon's time, today seem better prepared against nuclear attack than any other Western country.

At this moment Sweden is geared to make a complete shift, within a matter of hours, from peacetime to a wartime society. The entire populace would be ready to move quickly into bombed-out areas. Five units will be stationed in Stockholm, three in Göteborg, Sweden's second largest city. The first two units are scheduled to be fully mobilized by next July.

Thus about 3 per cent of the population of Sweden is on active CD duty. The cost to the government is about $76 million a year. While Sweden's elaborate CD organization began to take shape in 1944, its shelter program dates back even further—to the beginning of World War II.

Much of the country's terrain is of solid granite, and the government began at that time blasting out massive subterranean rooms. Today 14 huge shelters have been built in Sweden's nine major cities at an overall cost of $21 million.

All serve some peacetime use, if only as a parking garage, and many eventually will pay for themselves in full.

Sweden's largest community shelter—and probably the world's largest, too—is a 1,500-foot tunnel on three levels located in Stockholm. The shelter is leased to an oil company and contains a service station, a garage for 600 cars and a drive-in bank.

These 14 shelters can accommodate more than 120,000 persons, and another 130 smaller rock shelters are planned to take care of an additional 400 persons each.

In addition, the country is equipped with more than 30,000 "standard" shelters designed to provide protection from blast and fallout. They are reinforced concrete structures built into every public building constructed since 1945—schools, factories, hospitals, apartment houses. By law they must be large enough to accommodate all the inhabitants of the building and strong enough to withstand the debris should the building collapse on top of them.

Combined, these standard shelters provide space for about two million persons—more than a quarter of the total population. They're being built into new and existing buildings at the rate of 2,000 a year, adding 150,000 persons annually to the total.

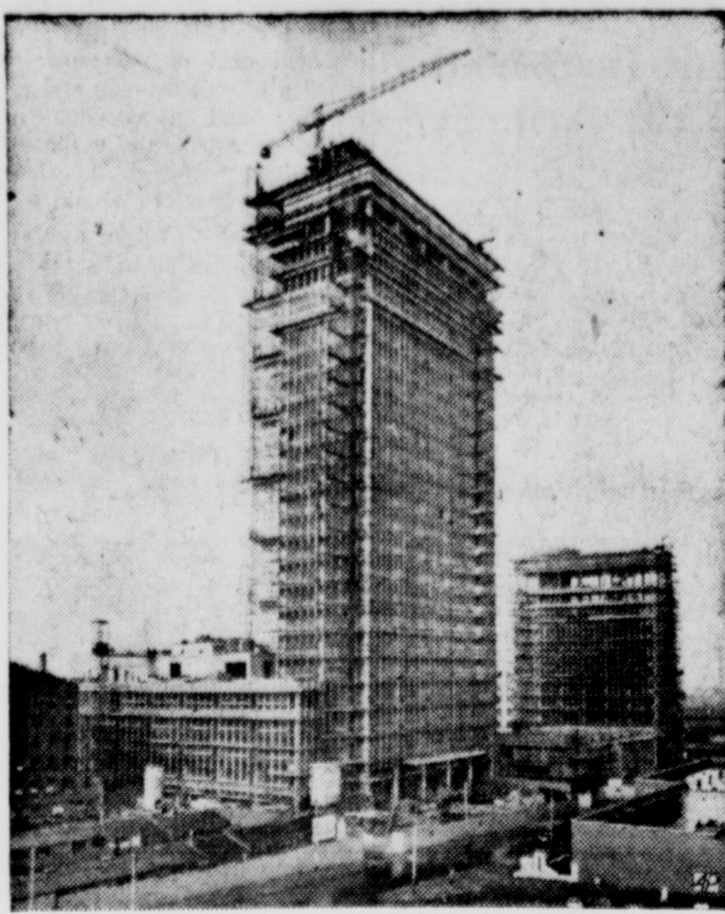

Again taking sons annually to the total.

Officer training requires 60 days, noncommissioned officers train 10 to 14 days, and privates 35 to 60 hours. Training was stepped up last fall when a national CD school was opened near Stockholm.

Sweden, about the size of California, is divided into 25 provinces. Each has a CD director and staff, including a military liaison officer. The provinces in turn are subdivided into CD areas each with a trained CD corps.

These corps are organized into specialized units—rescue, fire, medical, police and protection. The protection units are on guard against nuclear, chemical and bacteriological warfare and are tied in with 14 laboratories and a number of recording stations dotting the country which are set up to detect fallout, gasses and the like.

In addition, 20 motorized rescue units of 450 men each are being organized for placement in strategic spots across the country.

Packing a Paunch Demands Sheer Courage These Days

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—It takes real courage today to be a fat man.

The fellow who packs a paunch is one of the unsung heroes of our times. He is the great nonconformist of this generation, and his protuberant tummy is a badge of distinction, a token of true bravery flaunted in the face of the calorie-counting mob.

Anybody today can be skinny and stroll the land like a rampant beaupole. All you have to do is do without what most of mankind has struggled for over the last million years—food.

The dieters who go through this agony and wind up looking like a walking exclamation point may or may not be saints. But why do they have to regard all fat men as sinners—and their mortal enemies?

Every time these emaciated wretches meet an honest fat man they poke a bony finger in his chubby stomach and say things like: "You're putting it on again, I see."

It is high time the fat men of America formed themselves into a protective society to guard themselves against detractors. They should carry a neon-lit sign on their stomachs saying: "Please do not touch. Contents valuable."

A fat man, if left alone, is generally one of nature's noblemen. His crime, if any, is that he simply enjoys the good things of this world—and doesn't mind showing it. He is no hypocrite.

The ordinary fat man is peace-loving and law-abiding. He rarely robs banks, beats his wife, fights cops or cheats at pinocle. He wisely spends most of his energy enjoying himself. He doesn't have any energy left to get into trouble.

Secretly, he probably has a quiet pride in his large, economy-size stomach. It has many advantages. You can't beat it for showing off a Phi Beta Kappa key, and it makes a wonderful shield in pushing one's way through a crowded bus.

All fat men ask is that they be left alone to go through life enjoying peace of mind—and a piece of cake, too. Their motto is, "Live and let live."

But skinny people won't let them. Skinny people can't stand the sight of a comfortable, contented fat man.

It's about time fat men started fighting back. Our suggestion is that on a given day of each month—and at a certain hour—every fat man in America should turn around and fall down on the nearest dieter and smother him.

Cornish Hens Make Festive Holiday Treat

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At the time of our first Thanksgiving, Rock Cornish game hens weren't around the woods near Plymouth rock. But you'll find them today in every market. Nor were those French chestnuts packed in water or brine for use in delicious stuffing. Therefore, to bring the great American feast up to date, let's use Rock Cornish hens and stuff them with French chestnuts.

Rock Cornish Hens with French Chestnut Stuffing

(Yield: Sufficient stuffing for 6 Rock Cornish hens)

- 1 quart (4 cups) toasted small cubes (croutons)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes or 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup coarsely chopped canned water-packed French chestnuts
- 3/4 cup chicken broth or water
- 6 Rock Cornish hens, about 1-pound each

Combine bread cubes (measure after they are toasted), salt, thyme, black pepper and parsley. Sauté onion and celery in butter or margarine until onions are transparent and limp. Add and mix well. Stir in chopped chestnuts and broth or water. Rub the inside of body and neck cavities of hens lightly with salt and ground black pepper. Fill with stuffing.

Fasten neck skin to the backs of each with a skewer. Close body cavities with skewers. Tie legs together and fasten to the tails. Rub outside skin with softened butter or margarine. Place on a rack in an open shallow pan. Bake one hour or until skins are golden, in a pre-heated slow oven (325 degrees F.).

Another modern variation on the Thanksgiving theme is an unusually interesting appetizer from California made of garbanzos and red kidney beans:

Appetizer Beans

(Serves 10 to 12)

- 2 (1-pound) cans garbanzos
- 1 (1-pound) can red kidney beans
- 1/4 cup wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup oil (half olive oil)
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 teaspoon coarse black pepper

Crisp lettuce leaves. Finely chopped parsley or green onion.

Thoroughly drain garbanzos and kidney beans; turn beans together into a bowl. Shake or beat vinegar, oil, salt and pepper together until well blended. Pour over drained beans; stir to distribute.

Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight; stir once or twice to combine beans and marinade. Drain beans and pile into a serving bowl lined with crisp lettuce leaves; sprinkle chopped parsley or green onion over top.

Preferential Tea Given To Phi Phi Pledges

The Preferential Tea was held Monday night by Phi Phi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, for the five new pledges, Miss Lucy Walz, Miss Lucretia Jones, Miss Delores Light, Mrs. Almeda Menefee and Mrs. Mary Bennett, at the Old Missouri Homestead. Jackie Wilson, president, presided.

A dessert course was served before the meeting.

The business meeting was then presided over by the president. Plans were discussed for a Christmas party to be held at LeRoy's Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. Gifts will be exchanged then.

The Beta Sigma Phi City Council Christmas party was also discussed.

It was announced by the ways and means chairman and social chairman that a jewelry party will be held Monday, Nov. 20, at the home of Loyce Curtis, 2222 South Missouri, at 7:30 p.m. Members and guests are invited.

A discussion was held for a money making project to be held in December. It was decided by the members to sell hard candies instead of having the annual Kidnap Coffee. The next meeting will be at the home of Jerry Renno, 2221 South Grand, at 7:45 p.m. Pledges at 7 p.m.

'Fair Lady' Film Rights Cost Plenty

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

"My Fair Lady $5,500,000 (X)"

"(X) manufacturer's suggested retail price."

Devilish or not, the ads accentuated the astronomical bidding for the movie rights to the famed Broadway and international musical hit. Warners made a firm offer of $5,000,000 for the show, an offer still unaccepted.

Other than the owners of the show, the happiest person in town because of the record bidding is British actor Michael Evans.

Until the asking price got publicized, only two names were mentioned for the casting of the star role of Prof. Henry Higgins—Rex Harrison and Cary Grant.

Harrison, because he created the role on Broadway, and Grant, because he sells tickets at movie boxoffices.

But the high price of the property suddenly has made Evans the dark horse candidate for the Higgins' role. He played Higgins in the national company of the show both in the United States and the 10-week tour of the Soviet Union.

His 1,200 performances in the role even surpassed those of Harrison in the New York and London versions. Many who have seen all think the younger Evans was the best Higgins of the lot—even better than Harrison.

One top Warner source, who saw Evans in the Los Angeles company, confirms that he is very much in the running—if the studio gets the property.

"It's all a matter of economics," the executive reasons. "No star name is needed to sell 'My Fair Lady.' Say the property does sell for $5,500,000. It will take more than that to make it—maybe even $10,000,000."

"Grant's cut, usually a hefty percentage off the top, would add another million or two."

"Harrison's price, while not as high as Grant's, is way up there. That leaves Evans whose price is reasonable—and we know he can do the job superbly. If he should get it, it would make him a star overnight."
